

Ike Answers British Critics: Russia Must Show Good Faith

Take it from Here
NOTES FROM A CITY EDITOR'S DAYBOOK — We've come upon an interesting article in the Spring issue of the Journal of the Illinois Historical Society, entitled, "The Post Office in Illinois Politics of the 1850s."

It represents the writing and research of a Sterling native, Don E. Fahrenbacher, now assistant professor of English at Coe college, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

According to the writer, the political manipulations of postmasterships began under the administration of President Andrew Jackson, in 1829, but reached full flower in Illinois in the mid-century. And, the author adds, the pattern of patronage continues until this day.

FAHRENBACHER points out that the postmasterships didn't carry any great salaries but were hotly sought after because of the political influence and prestige they carried.

As a matter of fact, only 28 postmasterhips in the state carried a salary greater than $1,000 a year, but a pro-administration postmaster could be counted on to "carry the mail" for the party to which he owed allegiance.

In fact, franked Washington pamphlets were sent directly to the postmaster and he saw to it that they were distributed where they would have the greatest effect.

The author states that a postmaster of that day found himself in the admirable position to discourage the propaganda of the opposition party.

He would handle the political documents of the opposition with "studied carelessness," the author comments, and as a result they would be misdirected, delayed or just plain lost.

THE SAME PATTERN was noted in the handling of newspapers. A postmaster was in effect a circulation manager for the periodicals of his choice. He had such an influence over newspaper circulation that the Chicago Tribune, in 1881, wrote to Sen. Trumbull urging that one of its editors be made postmaster in Chicago.

Quoting the letter written by the Tribune: "We want the office not wholly for the money there is in it, but as a means of extending and insuring our business and extending the influence of the Tribune."

IN THAT CONNECTION, a staunch party worshipper wrote the postmaster-general a letter praising the postmaster at Kankakee. He spoke not of the efficient way the mail was delivered, but of the fact that the circulation of the "Democratic papers has been increased more than 10-fold in the past 18 months, while at the same time the Republican papers have fallen off more than 100 per cent."

"This change in a great measure has been brought about by the enterprising perseverance of our P.M.," the letter writer concluded.

A SPRINGFIELD postmaster was once accused of cancelling subscriptions to people he did not like without the formality of consulting the subscribers.

POSTMASTERS of that day usually provided the furnishings for the office. Quite often, the author states, he confused the ownership of the property with the ownership of the office.

Some of them went so far as to sell the job, lock, stock and barrel to a chosen successor, eliminating the process of congressional and presidential endorsements.

THE AUTHOR declared that at Sterling, a strongly Republican territory, the Democratic postmaster in 1858 moved his office from the center of the town to the western edge and defied all protests.

Finally the citizens dug into their pockets and hired a deputy postmaster to get the mail at the new post office and distribute it at the old.

DIET DIARY: Bev Loses 10 Pounds in 8 Dieting Days

With 4 More Days To Go on 'Miracle Diet,' She's Fine!

By BEVERLY STROUSS
Telegraph Society Editor

I weigh just 10 pounds less than I did eight days ago! My waistline has shrunk two inches and I'm feeling great! That's the honest-to-goodness report of my experience with the "Miracle Diet."

It seems almost incredible that I have lost so many excess pounds without experiencing any hunger—the real craving kind of hunger that sends overweight people to the cookie jar and which makes between-meal snacks irresistible.

I know there are many taking part in the diet with me. Our printers now say that more than 2,000 copies of the "Miracle Diet" have been printed. We'll continue to keep a supply as long as you request them. The letters are still pouring in.

Wants Letters
I wish that more of you would write and tell me of your experiences with the diet. I'd like to pass your comments on to others. I'll withhold your name, of course.

I've received many letters from overweight people—people who are 30, 40 or more pounds overweight, thanking me for being a "guinea pig" in testing Lorna's diet.

Really I had a personal motive in going on the diet in the first place. I wanted to be trim like other young women. It's almost a universal desire among women, it seems. Then when the city editor asked me to do this series of articles, I saw a chance to be of service to others. So at the risk of giving publicity to my chubbiness (no woman likes to admit being fat) I am doing them. And I've never been sorry that I did, because apparently it has brought home a big lesson, the lesson that overweight people should tackle their problem directly, sensibly and with the least amount of discomfort to themselves.

Eat and Grow Slim
Certainly the "Miracle Diet" allows one to "eat and grow slim." I'll admit that it departs from the usual pattern of diets such as eating pork chops or lamb chops for breakfast!

Another thing I've learned and I'm sure that all of you on this diet will learn: Everyone who goes on a diet must discipline themselves. Even the "Miracle Diet" brings home that fact, although it specifies that you can eat all the meat that you desire.

But you will notice that salt, bread and sugar are noticeably absent from the diet schedule. Between-meal snacks are eliminated; an eight-hour sleeping schedule is

31 Rail Cars Derailed on Freeport Line

FREEPORT, Ill. (AP)—Thirty-one cars of a Chicago Great Western freight train derailed at Pearl City, 12 miles west of Freeport, Wednesday, tying up the right-of-way and blocking State Route 73 over night.

The next five cars behind a 25-car derailed segment of the train were tank cars filled with high octane gasoline. They remained on the track.

A six-car section of the train derailed at the Pearl City depot, and one car plunged into the baggage room which station agent Herman Garrells had left just a few moments before.

No one was reported injured.

Great Western traffic was rerouted over the Illinois Central line.

Miss Skidmore was pinned in the back seat of the car.

Rodney Brodie Needs More Surgery to Prolong Life

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss. (AP)—Further surgery is needed if Rodney Dee Brodie, the surviving Brodie Siamese twin, is to live, a plastic surgeon reported here.

A supporting structure of bone or other material, to cover the spot where the babies' heads were separated, must be provided, reported Dr. Paul W. Greeley, professor of surgery in the plastic surgery department of the University of Illinois Medical School.

Dr. Greeley submitted his report Wednesday to the annual meeting of the American Association of Plastic Surgeons. Greeley was the chief plastic surgeon on the team of 12 surgeons which separated the babies' heads last December.

Rodney will spend the rest of his life with part of his dead brother's skin covering part of his head, Dr. Greeley said. The dead twin, Roger Lee, both cases, both twins died.

Communists Reject New Allied Plan

Another Stalemate In Truce Talks Is Seen in Newest Move

PANMUNJOM (AP)—The Communists today said no to the latest Allied plan for exchanging war prisoners; and neither side gave any indication of yielding on that last major barrier to an armistice in Korea.

Nearby, the Reds tore down tents used for exchanging sick and wounded war prisoners, indicating they're through trading. The United Nations center still stands.

At today's truce meeting, the Reds called the Allied counterproposal to their eight-point May 7 offer "absolutely unacceptable."

The chief Allied negotiator, Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr., answered with charges that the Reds illegally took Allied prisoners across the Yalu River into Manchuria and used others for labor troops.

He charged the Reds with reducing warfare to a "new viciousness" by impressing some 50,000 captives into the Communist armed forces.

The Allied counter offer would free 34,000 North Korean prisoners who refused repatriation and, under certain conditions, would put 14,500 Chinese in temporary custody of a five-nation commission made up of Sweden, Switzerland, India, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

If two months of Red "explanations" failed to sway the Chinese the Allies would release them outright. The Red plan would leave their fate to a high-level, post-armistice conference.

North Korean Gen. Nam Il called the Allied plan "unreasonable and absurd" and said it was simply a "disguise" to hold prisoners forcibly.

The Allies have insisted that the Red plan would give the prisoners a choice of only forced repatriation or indefinite imprisonment.

Judge Dismisses Nine Appeals of Truck Verdicts

Judge Robert Bracken today dismissed nine cases, involving overweight vehicles, which had been appealed to the Lee county circuit court.

Six of the cases were brought into the circuit court on appeals pertaining to judgments of Justice of the Peace Elliot A. Arnold, Compton. Three other cases were appealed from the court of Justice of the Peace Sterling Schrock, Dixon.

Defendants were fined by the lower court for operating motor vehicles on Illinois highways with loads in excess of the legal limit. Fines levied in the justice of the peace courts ranged as high as $114.40. All of the fines were paid.

Memler said additional raises could be granted in one of three ways, all of which are out of control of the board. Those actions, he said, were by favorable vote in a referendum, increased state aid or increased assessed valuation of the school district.

Memler asserted that raises were not allotted throughout the

Little Citizen Group Considers Petitions To Increase Tax Rate

Claiming that discontent breeds "isms," Mrs. Charles Lesage, 814 Chula Vista, informed the school board Wednesday night that Dixon teachers, by-passed for pay raises in the next school term, are dissatisfied.

AWAITING "CUE"

Mrs. Vernon Duke, 720 Forest st., one of a group of parents appearing at last night's school board meeting to advocate salary hikes for veteran Dixon teachers, told a reporter today she expected a referendum on raising teacher salaries to be held here.

Mrs. Duke, who described the group appearing at the meeting as a "sort of Little Citizens Commission," said the group would probably circulate a petition to hold the referendum after further discussion with school board members.

She said the group would keep in contact with the board for its opinion on a "ripe time" to put the petition into circulation.

It was expressed at last night's meeting both by board members and those present to advocate teacher pay raises that an extensive campaign first would be required to inform the public of the "necessity of approving such a referendum."

the board had not given raises to veteran teachers in the local system.

M. M. Memler, board president, said that funds simply were not available to raise salaries of teachers other than those holding master and bachelor degrees and with less than 13 years of service here. Salary hikes of $200 each were voted that group April 15 by the board.

No Funds

Memler said additional raises could be granted in one of three ways, all of which are out of control of the board. Those actions, he said, were by favorable vote in a referendum, increased state aid or increased assessed valuation of the school district.

Strike Eases At Generating Plant Project

Picketing at the Public Service company's new generating plant was discontinued Wednesday and most of the American Federation of Labor trade and craft personnel returned to work.

However, the labor dispute between the Shappert Construction company, Belvidere, and the Iron Workers union, Local 498, with headquarters in Rockford, has not been settled, according to sources at the generating plant.

The walkout of AFL trade and craftsmen began on May 1, but picketing of the plant did not start until Monday when one picket was stationed near the plant entrance. According to a union source, the dispute involves wage agreements and welfare problems.

The walkout indirectly involved all AFL trade and craftsmen in that workers would not cross the picket area.

Youth Day Out

It affects the second day, Saturday, Aug. 15, of the 10-day exposition.

Make Plans For Junior Fair Here

Chamber Wants Use Of HS Field for Stock Pens, Tents

Permission was given the chamber of commerce by the school board last night to hold a "tractor rodeo" for 4-H members on the football practice field north of the high school, and similar action was deferred on a request to hold the 4-H fair on school property.

Approval, with Francis (Hank) Henry casting a lone dissenting vote, was given the 1953-54 school calendar.

Supt. A. H. Lancaster was instructed to arrange a meeting between chamber officials and the board to further discuss the request to hold the 4-H fair on the football practice field. The board suggested noon Wednesday in the Nachusa Hotel.

The request was presented at the meeting by Neil Howell and Ed Mack, representing the chamber. They said the annual event has been scheduled for Aug. 23-25.

Tells Of Plans

They asked that the field be granted for use of tents to shelter livestock and that the cement drive west of the high school be used for concession stands.

Board members discussed the request at length, expressing belief that while the fair has an educational aspect and would be a benefit to the city by attracting potential shoppers, damage to the field by tent stakes, manure and discarded baling wire was to be considered.

M. M. Memler, board president, said previous experience with animals on the field has shown that acid in manure kills patches of grass. He said that nobody ever has been successful in finding all discarded baling wires until pieces have damaged lawnmower blades. Lancaster said that stake holes are practically impossible to pack with dirt so that it may permanently be brought up to a level with surrounding ground. He added that such depressions were a threat to athletes running on the field.

Health Aspect

John Culey, board secretary, questioned the health aspect of students practicing football on the field immediately after manure had been on it.

Football practice is scheduled to start on the field the day after the fair ends.

Atty. John Dixon said he felt such an event was as important as

President Sees Status Unchanged

Top-Level Conference For Peace Must Await Genuine Move by Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has no objection to a conference of top leaders of the major powers, but that he would like to see some evidence of good faith from the Soviet Union.

And as yet, he declared, he has seen no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russians in their talk of wanting world peace.

Eisenhower's news conference remarks were in reply to a request for comment on Prime Minister Winston Churchill's speech earlier this week urging a high level conference without great delay.

All Want Peace

Eisenhower also declared: "I have met no one in the United States who does not want peace."

The president permitted direct quotation of that remark, made in reply to a request for comment on statements by Clement Attlee, former British prime minister.

Attlee said in the House of Commons Wednesday that Eisenhower administration's hands were tied in seeking peace in Korea by "elements in the U.S.A. that do not want a settlement."

As for Churchill's call for a conference of the leaders of the major parties, the president noted that the state department suggested Wednesday such a conference should await proof of the Soviet Union's sincerity in talking about peace.

Eisenhower said the department's statement was issued with his approval.

The President recently said he was willing to accept Soviet peace overtures at face value.

Shows Impatience

His statement today that there has been no evidence of good faith on the part of the Russians seemed to indicate a bit of impatience.

The President said emphatically, however, that he was willing to take almost any kind of a chance to promote peace in the world.

On other matters, Eisenhower:

1. Announced he will make a nation-wide radio address next Tuesday evening on the security of the nation as related to the federal budget and taxes. The hour for the speech has not been set.

2. Said he probably will make a nation-wide report to the nation by television a week or so later. He said he had in mind a review of what has taken place during his brief administration.

3. Emphasized that his appointment of a new military high command in no way implies any criticism of the men who are being replaced on the joint chiefs of staffs. The President said Secretary of Defense Wilson felt he should have an entirely new team, and that he agreed with Wilson.

Endorses Pay Raise

4. Endorsed a proposal in Congress to raise the pay of senators and House members by $10,000 a year. Eisenhower said the time is

Blame Radiation for Frost, Illness Near A-Bomb Tests

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Prospectors say Western New Mexico is being bombarded with so much radiation from atomic tests that at times it's impossible to test for uranium ore.

Fruit growers in Northwestern New Mexico are blaming frosts on atomic tests in Nevada.

Residents in one area think a wave of lightheadedness and nausea may have been caused by radioactivity.

Atomic Energy commission officials discount all the complaints. Prospectors in the Gallup, N. M., area say that at times following tests, their Geiger counters couldn't distinguish radioactivity in the air from radioactivity in uranium ore.

A spokesman for fruit growers in San Juan county in Northwestern New Mexico made up a list for newsmen showing that three atomic tests were made between 48 and 60 hours before heavy frost damaged fruit.

The first explosion listed, April 6, occurred two days before tem-

MRS. ROBERT LESAGE (center) is shown at the Dixon school board meeting last night, voicing her opinion that salaries of veteran teachers here should be raised. There is "discontent" on the faculty, she advised the members. At the right listening intently is Atty. John Dixon, member of the board of education. In the foreground, with their backs to the camera are Dr. Leslie Hinkle, member of the board, and Neil Howell, Dixon, appearing before the board to request use of the athletic field for the 4-H fair this fall.

Chickens Join Beef As Store Bargains

By The Associated Press

There are signs that chickens will soon join beef on the best buy list in food stores of the country.

The Poultry and Egg National Board reports that within the next few weeks between 15 and 16 million chickens will be shipped to market every week. And the prospect is that this will go on for weeks to come.

The big supplies are expected to bring lower prices. Actually, flying chickens were down two to four cents in various sections of the country this week.

The board also noted that egg prices are coming down a bit. Some retail stores knocked two to three cents off the price of a dozen this week.

Nevertheless, egg prices are high for this time of the year, wholesalers said. The continued high demand has puzzled producers, who normally experience a slump in May.

Beef prices continued at the low levels of recent months, with changes either way reported by only a few stores. Among cuts being featured for the week end were pot roast, chuck roast, corned beef, rib roast and sirloin steak.

Pork chops, which recently soared, settled back in some areas, with price reductions of two to six cents reported. Chain stores said bacon has climbed six cents a pound in the last week.

Leg of lamb went up four cents a pound in some areas.

On the best buy list in vegetables were tomatoes, onions, potatoes, and asparagus.

Nine U. of Illinois Students Dismissed for Pantie Raid

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A 2,000-man pantie raid on sorority houses and dormitories at the University of Illinois resulted in dismissal Wednesday of nine students who took part in the raid.

The nine are:

Charles E. Albright, 18, Loogootee, Fayette county.

James C. Benson, 20, Rockford.

Arthur W. Benson, 18, Aurora.

William C. Laisen, 18, Lyons.

Richard C. Lysholom, 18, Blue Island.

Richard D. McArthur, 19, Westmont, DuPage county.

Robert E. Peters, 19, Zion.

John F. Powers, 19, LaGrange Park.

Gerald D. Rhoden, 19, Chrisman, Edgar county.

Continue Probe

The university subcommittee on discipline, which made the dismissals, also authorized Joseph Ewers, the university security officer, to continue an investigation in an effort to identify any other persons responsible for the Tuesday night melee.

For nearly four hours the mob of howling students surrounded women's residence halls and sorority houses, trampling flower beds, knocking down fences and breaking several windows.

Some 40 police officers from Urbana, Champaign, the university and from state police district headquarters at Urbana were called out to quiet the demonstrators.

Police said the raiders obtained several pieces of women's under-clothing but that many were soaked by water thrown at them by jeering coeds.

Appear in Court

Three of the dismissed students appeared in court Wednesday on disorderly conduct charges.

Arthur Benson was fined $100 and costs by Police Magistrate Virgil W. Buigess of Champaign. Burgess suspended $80 of the fine.

James C. Benson was fined $25 and costs by Police Magistrate James Mautz in Urbana.

McArthur, who also appeared before Burgess, had his case continued until Saturday.

The committee which ordered the dismissals is made up of eight faculty members and three students.

Three Negroes Win Atlanta Public Posts

ATLANTA (AP)—Atlanta, a Democratic stronghold for many decades, gave public posts to three Negroes in a primary which set a precedent by omitting the label of "Democrat."

Mayor William B. Hartsfield, president of the American Municipal association, was reelected to a fifth term Wednesday. His opponent, Charlie Brown, former Fulton county commissioner, declared Hartsfield's 32,253 to 25,111 margin of victory was due to "Negro bloc voting."

Dr. Rufus G. Clement, Negro president of Atlanta university, defeated his white opponent, J. H. Landers, in a race for a school board post held by Landers for 26 years. The vote was Clement 22,142, Landers 13,800.

Not since Reconstruction days had a Negro tried for election to the Atlanta board of education.

Two other Negroes—A. T. Walden and Miles Amos—were elected to the 16-member city executive committee, which governs elections.

When deer were introduced into New Zealand they became so numerous as to be a pest.

Senate Votes Housing Curbs

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Senate Wednesday voted new restrictions on public housing projects.

If the House goes along on the bill, new or enlarged public housing projects could be undertaken only if voters in precincts within a one mile radius site give approval in advance.

The bill cleared the Senate by a 29 to 14 margin, with 26 votes required for passage.

Senator Arthur E. Larson (R-Chicago), chief sponsor of the measure, said its aim was "to confine public housing to what it first was intended for," slum clearance."

Flowers, Not Road

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Twenty years ago, Mrs. H. O. Crumpler said, she wanted to plant a garden and the city-owned plot next to her house looked like a good spot. "Go ahead," the city officials told her. The city had chartered Evergreen Street to run through the plot, "but that street never will be opened in your lifetime."

So Mrs. Crumpler hauled in

rocks, fertilizer, peat moss and started planting flowers. Soon the flower garden became a neighborhood showplace. Then, last month, came a notice from the city public works department that Evergreen street would be opened. Mrs. Crumpler would have to move that part of her garden which came within limits of the proposed street, the notice said.

At the next city council meeting she told her story and then gave all the councilmen some flowers from her garden. The councilmen tossed the problem to the Public Works department. On a second look, the Public Works department found that Champion Street — another non-existent street on the other side of Mrs. Crumpler's flower bed — would serve the city's purposes just as well as Evergreen Street.

Danger in Cutting AF Budget Will Make Congress Squirm

A lot of congressmen are likely to develop acute cases of split personality when they start examining next year's proposed military budget in detail.

When President Eisenhower announced his intention to whack $5,244,000,000 from the $41,000,000,000 suggested for defense by former President Truman, some leading Republican lawmakers said they thought even more could be eliminated.

The urge to chop closer to the bone, however, will run smack into some facts that will make the legislators squirm with discomfort. For the Eisenhower budget trimming calls for some sharp reductions in Air Force spending. And the Air Force is, in the view of many congressmen, the critical element in our defenses.

Under the president's plan, the Air Force target of 143 wings by 1955-56 would be slashed to around 120 wings. This could be a grave risk for several reasons.

1. If such a reduction is made, the part of the Air Force most likely to suffer is the tactical arm, comprising the medium and light aircraft which are highly useful in combatting the "little wars" begun by Soviet satellites under Moscow's inspiration.

The danger here is that if we are deficient in such planes, then we could meet new threats, perhaps in spots like Yugoslavia or Iran—only by employing heavy strategic bombers. Unless they carry A-bombs, their effectiveness is not great. But resort to such a weapon would bring us perilously near general war.

2. The proposed cut in future air strength would also affect our strategic force. It is not built in a vacuum. It must be related carefully to the strength of Russia's air defenses. All that we know indicates the Soviet Union has markedly improved these. Consequently, the effectiveness of any given level of U. S. strategic air power is correspondingly reduced.

To compensate for these improvements within Russia, we can only provide more or better strategic bombers, not fewer. It will not mean much to have the atomic and the hydrogen bombs if we cannot deliver them against the principal targets.

3. Our own defenses against a Russian A-bomb attack are acknowledged to be sadly inadequate. As a rule of thumb, Air Force specialists say 70 per cent of any attacking force would get safely past our protective barriers. We need more fighters and vastly better raid warning systems.

Who has any right to feel secure when he knows 70 of 100 planes carrying enemy A-bombs could reach their American targets without serious interference?

It is problems like these that can send congressmen who want to cut the budget trooping off to the psychiatrist's couch.

Gal Shows Talent at Mixed Match

By OSWALD JACOBY

I can explain the bidding of South in today's hand merely by pointing out that it took place in a mixed pair tournament. In such an event the male half of the partnership usually tries to play as many hands as possible, particularly in no-trump.

Mind you, I don't say that these tactics are justified, since sometimes the woman is a better player than the man. I am merely reporting what takes place in most mixed pair events.

Most experts would bid a spade with the South hand instead of one no-trump. Most experts, likewise, would raise spades if they failed to bid the suit the first time. The experts would be right, ordinarily, but this time South wanted to play the hand and he had his wish.

West opened the six of clubs and South began to feel sorry that he had insisted on a no-trump contract. At spades, the probable loss would be one trump, one diamond and one club. At no-trump, apparently, he was headed for a defeat.

South shrewdly played the jack of clubs from dummy at the first trick. The idea was to tempt East into covering with the queen of clubs (assuming that he held that card). East fell for this little ruse by putting up the queen of clubs, and South won with the king of clubs. Dummy's tenpot now furnished a second stopper.

East should have played a low club at the first trick. Dummy's jack would hold the trick, but then West could win the second club trick with the ace, capturing the king. East's queen would then be good for the third club, and declarer would thus win only one club trick.

After winning the first trick with the king of clubs, South laid down the ace of spades hopefully. West dropped the king, to declarer's delight, and South paused for reflection. The contract was now safe, but South wanted to play for the maximum.

Declarer therefore entered dummy with the king of hearts and led a diamond towards his king. West won with the ace and decided that there was lots of time to work on the clubs since apparently East had enough spades to prevent that suit from becoming a threat.

West therefore led a low club instead of returning a diamond. Dummy won with the ten of clubs, and now declarer came from behind the bushes by running the rest of the spades and his top cards in the red suits. His score for making 11 tricks at no-trump was highly satisfactory.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: North East South West
1 Spade Pass 2 Dmids. Pass
2 Spades Pass ?

You, South, hold: Spades Q-8-5, Hearts 7-4, Diamonds A-K-J-7-5, Clubs A-6-2. What do you do?

A—Bid three clubs. In this case you are not showing a real suit. It is quite safe to make this false bid because your partner must find another bid. You intend to raise spades at your next turn.

Women Would Reap Misery With This Tiny Machine

A tiny sound recorder has been used to get a record of the buying public's candid reactions. Let's hope the women never decide to use it.

It can be hidden in a pocket to pick up conversations on spoils of magnetic wire.

Just think what women could do with this gadget. If Mrs. Jones wanted to know what members of her sewing circle really thought of her she could stay away from a meeting and get her best friend to hide the little recorder in her handbag.

Then Mrs. Jones would have the complete low-down on herself. I can hear the machine now repeating back something like this:

"I don't mean to be catty but it does seem to me that Ellen Jones isn't making much of an effort to get to our meetings. This is the third one she has missed in just a few months."

AND THEN THE ANSWER

"Well, you know Ellen. She gets herself involved in so many things. And now that she has gotten in with that country club crowd we probably aren't as important to her as we once were."

"Speaking of Ellen, have you noticed how fat she's getting? She really should do something about it. It makes her look so much older."

"Don't worry. She won't do anything about her weight. You know how self-satisfied Ellen is. But I can't help wondering how Jeff feels about it. Jeff's a mighty attractive man. And you can't tell me a man doesn't mind his wife's letting herself go."

Let's hope women never make use of the tiny recorder to pick up candid conversations among their "friends."

It would put an end to women's friendships.

Answer to Paying High Salaried Executives Sumptuous Pensions Is National Law Prohibiting It, Pegler Says

Corporations which confront their helpless stockholders with sumptuous pensions for well-paid ruling executives, usually argue that Company "A" must provide these "incentives" because otherwise Company "B" will lure away the best talent. The answer to this would be a national law forbidding such greedy rackets altogether. Then they would all be on a level footing and a cynical tax-dodge would be stopped.

Emboldened by the selfishness of the executives in high salary brackets, the unions, especially those of the CIO, have moved in with similar demands for hidden or disguised compensation called "fringe benefits." It was embarrassing for an executive drawing say, $150,000 a year, and accumulating pension rights at the expense of the stockholders, to argue that the horny-handed types of labor were less deserving of pensions and other trick benefits. The credits to all such recipients always are immune from the income tax. So the executives said: "Sure; we are very liberal, broad-minded fellows and we recognize the justice of your demands."

The result has been that the ordinary small stockholder, who is the greatest aggregate investor in big business, has found himself burdened with a liability for pensions to thousands of employees, though he himself can look forward to nothing better than the erratic and fraudulent pension of social security.

I will go into detail about the corrupt and economically dangerous fraud of social security at a later date, but for the moment no more proof of its wickedness need be offered than the fact that the victim is compelled to buy it from an insurance company which makes its own terms and changes them in its own favor right along. No contract is valid without free will on both sides. No contract is good in which one party has the right to change the terms and the other party is compelled to pay whatever the first party demands, under penalty of jail.

I have dealt in some detail with a notice which Sinclair Oil, of New York, sent to its stockholders in anticipation of the April meeting of "stockholders." This typical notice of a company meeting sounds the pitch of such deliberations. You will see that those present look out for themselves and for the lesser employees on the ground that anything good for them is good for the company and that which is good for the company is good for the stockholders.

Under the heading of "Proposed Savings Plan for Employees," this notice blandly says: "The desirability of plans for systematic savings by employees, including officers, has become widely recognized."

Recognized by whom? Not by the stockholders but by selfish executives and union organizers taking advantage of their precedent. — and such plans have been adopted by most of the larger on companies which are competitors of the corporation.

The unspoken truth of that is, of course, that such executives are members of a circle of familiars and are, on the average, personal friends with a common standard of ethics.

"As the result of collective bargaining concerning demands by unions representing a large percentage of employees, the corporation's principal subsidiaries have agreed on the proposed plan, subject to approval," etc.

Therefore, any employee with one year's service may rank up to five per cent of his pay in a special company fund and the good old reliable sucker with 10 shares of common stock will be forced to give his employee, free, one-half of the amount of his allotment, in other words, give a tax-exempt bonus of 2½ per cent of the entire payroll to employees already well paid. There are some trivial minor provisions but, at the very worst, the employee, of whatever degree, gets back all he put in.

The excuse given the stockholder for this coddling paternalism at his expense is that the plan "will attract and retain desirable workers, promote employee morale and encourage thrift on the part of employees by affording them a method to provide additional security for their retirement."

All concerned are, of course, eligible for company pensions, which are actually compensation for their working years but excused from current income taxes during those years. And, in addition, all concerned become eligible for their old age pensions under social security on reaching 65.

The stockholder, on the other hand, finds his stock dividends badly diminished by these commitments to the employees and if, on reaching 65, he must continue to hold a job to eke out a living, he forfeits his social security pension.

Questions and Answers

Q—Is paper organic or inorganic matter?

A—Organic, having once been part of a tree or plant.

Q—Why is court plaster so called?

A—The term is taken from the old custom of ladies at court wearing specks of black plaster on the face.

Q—What is included in "good will" when a business is sold?

A—It is the evaluation placed upon the reputation, patronage, popularity, and other intangible advantages possessed by a business concern in operation, including name and good disposition of its customers.

Q—Did Charles Goodyear ever serve a prison term?

A—Yes, he began his experiments with rubber while he was in prison for debt in Philadelphia.

Q—Did a vice president of the United States ever resign?

A—John C. Calhoun was the only one. He resigned the vice presidency in 1832 and entered the Senate.

So They Say

If agriculture spent a tenth of the money distillers spend for advertising, we'd make tremendous progress.

—Iowa farm leader Howard Roach.

The hidden traitors who have penetrated our institutions to disorganize them are unmasked and given their just punishment. It is all the same whether they are ordinary citizens or a foreign minister.

What's Right?

Neighbors complain about your dog's being a nuisance.

WRONG: Take the attitude that anyone who objects to a dog is just being mean.

RIGHT: Do something to keep the dog from being a nuisance to your neighbors.

The Doctor Says:

More Rest and Less Worry Help Check Migraine Pain

By EDWIN P. JORDON, M. D.

MISS L. writes that she is suffering from severe migraine headaches and asks how to get rid of them. There must be many others in the same unfortunate situation. The first step, of course, is to make sure that the headaches are really migraine and not some other kind. This requires professional assistance. As a clue, however, it may be said that most victims of migraine frequently have some peculiar feelings before the headaches begin.

Sometimes they report seeing visions of animals, become acutely depressed, excessively hungry, or experience some similar change from normal which they come to recognize as foreshadowing an attack of migraine.

Another common characteristic of migraine headaches is difficulty with vision — usually blurring or spots — coming on about the same time as the headache. The headache itself is likely to start gradually, but become worse and worse and spread more widely. In many, if not most cases, the headache is on one side and those who have severe attacks may be really knocked out for a day or two.

A great many drugs and other treatments have been suggested for migraine. Some of them are helpful, particularly if started at the time of warning or at the beginning of the attack. However, one of the best articles on this subject which I have seen recently says:

"Nothing out of the bottle will offer more than passing relief.

Cure must be brought about by the patient himself, guided by his doctor."

The first recommendation made in the article is that the day's work should be reduced. Enough time should be allowed for rest. The person at 50 should not work as at 20.

The second suggestion is to avoid needless and useless worry. Worry is a waste of time. Most people realize this, but often they do not understand how much they can do for themselves by training themselves out of such a habit.

ACHIEVE MORE HARMONY
The third suggestion is to change some of your standards. If the standards are not adding to enjoyment and satisfaction in life, the attitude towards one's own high standards should be somewhat modified so that one does not resent or become anxious about situations, particularly those caused by others.

The final point made in this article was to develop fuller tolerance of other people. This is closely tied to the second and third points, and perhaps they are all part of developing a philosophy towards life which will make one's own daily affairs as much in harmony with what goes on outside as it is possible to do.

As a matter of fact, the same points made for migraine headache would not be a bad idea for everyone to consider, including those who feel themselves perfectly normal.

29 U.S. Companies Have Billion-Dollar Assets

NEW YORK—(AP)—Billion-dollar businesses are growing — both in size and in number. There are 29 now with assets of one billion dollars or more. Before World War II there were 12. Five joined the list just last year.

The 29 included industrials, utilities and railroads. To these could be added 18 commercial banks, 14 insurance companies and two finance companies topping one billion dollars in assets—but their assets are of a different type than those of manufacturing or service companies.

Sixteen of these 29 billion-dollar babies also topped one billion dollars in gross revenues in 1952. Thirteen other companies, whose assets were less than one billion dollars, also turned in better than one billion dollars in sales.

Carn 100 Million

Thirteen of the 590 top giants reported net earnings after taxes of more than 100 million dollars each. No company with assets of less than one billion dollars entered into this charmed earnings group.

The big keep getting bigger, too. In 1951 there were 24 companies in the billion dollar asset class.

Their assets totalled around $52,675,000,000 last year these 24 had increased their total assets to around $53,385,000,000.

Inflation played a large part in boosting the size of assets after the war. Its force was diminished last year, but the great plant building spree of American industry sent the asset total up.

Bell Largest

Topping the list of giants is the Bell Telephone System with nearly 10 1/2 billion dollars. It is twice the size of the next company, Jersey Standard Oil. Other oil companies in the list include, in order of size, Socony-Vacuum, Indiana Standard, Texas, Gulf, California

Standard, Cities Service and Sinclair.

Third largest company is General Motors. Ford also belongs in the group, but Chrysler falls just short of the billion dollar mark.

Pennsylvania Railroad is the fourth largest company. Other rails in the billion dollar group are New York Central, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, and Baltimore & Ohio.

United States Steel is the fifth largest company. Bethlehem, in 15th place, is the only other steel.

Other companies in the list include: du Pont, Pacific Gas & Electric, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, and Commonwealth Edison.

Recent Arrivals

Then come the recent arrivals: Humble Oil, an affiliate of Jersey Standard, International Harvester, Union Carbide, Cities Service and Sinclair Oil.

The 13-top money makers — in terms of net profit — are GM, Jersey Standard, Bell, du Pont, Texas, Socony-Vacuum, California Standard, General Electric, U. S. Steel, Gulf Oil, Indiana Standard, Sears Roebuck and Ford.

In both earnings and assets Ford's 1951 figures are used because its 1952 statement is not available, but industry sources consider its last year's performance should keep the company in the billion-dollar class.

Corsets Fool Him

NEW YORK—(AP)—If Hy Malik had his way, women would not be allowed to wear corsets or girdles to amusement parks. Hy explains that these garments are an obstacle to his chosen profession — weight guesser at a New Jersey amusement park.

Hy has been guessing the weights of people for almost two decades. "You can't tell what is behind those corsets when a woman steps on a scale," Malik declared.

Malik said that "on a good day" he can guess men's weights correctly almost 70 per cent of the time. On the other hand, if he can break 50 per cent with the women, he considers himself lucky. If Malik doesn't guess a person's weight within three pounds, the individual wins a prize.

Hy says that he is always running into people who are eager to outwit him. "One day at Palisades Amusement Park," Hy recalled,

"a young man got on the scale with about 10 pounds of rocks under his coat. On another occasion, a man had a sash weight strapped around his waist."

Malik says that people on the average are fatter today than they were when he started out in business.

salary schedule for teachers with bachelor and master degrees because the available funds were needed to boost beginners' salaries to compete with other cities in attracting recent teacher graduates.

Mrs. Lesage professed satisfaction with the board's explanation given by Memler.

(The reasons cited by Memler were a repetition of those expressed April 15 and reported April 16 in The Evening Telegraph.)

The group was asked by W. E. Haarbauer, board member, if it felt the public would pass a referendum to provide additional funds for salary hikes.

James Hey, one of the parents, replied:

"Not if it were held tomorrow or next week, but if a concentrated effort was made by local organizations to let the public know that it is imperative to pay high enough salaries to obtain good teachers it could be passed."

Haarbauer said that he felt success of a referendum on the proposition would be a case of "timing" and education of the public to the reasons why higher salaries are needed.

According to Memler, voters approved building the two new schools here because local organizations and board members contacted as many people as possible to tell them why the two schools were needed.

"They approved the construction by a vote of 4-1 because they had received the explanation they always deserve," he said.

No further action toward petitioning for a referendum was indicated.

Felt Necessary
Mrs. Lesage said she was appealing for raises in teacher salaries because she felt they were necessary to attract and retain in the teaching profession the best instructors possible.

She said she had heard discontentment expressed in conversations among teachers regarding the pay they receive and that they invariably express the possibility of leaving the profession for more lucrative pay fields.

She declared she did not want her children taught in an atmosphere of discontentment, "which I believe breeds 'isms.'"

Francis (Hank) Henry, board member, asserted that every member of the school board feels that teachers are underpaid.

"But we are limited in funds available to increase their salaries," he added.

Mrs. Duke Speaks
Mrs. Vernon Duke, 720 Forrest st., another of those appearing at the meeting, said she and others were pleased that the local schools "are as good as they are, but we want them even better."

Mrs. Duke indicated that the group considered itself as a "Little Citizens commission," although a branch of a national group by this name had not been established here.

The board emphasized that such interested groups always were welcome at its meetings, after Mrs. Duke had expressed doubt on that point.

Dixon Woman Gets Divorce

Doris E. Bird, Dixon, was granted separate maintenance Wednesday from her husband, Cleo, in Lee county Circuit court.

In awarding the decree, Circuit Court Judge Robert Bracken ordered that the husband pay $5 a week toward the support of his wife and child.

The Birds were married Sept. 11, 1943, at Galesburg, and lived together until March 14, when the wife was compelled to move elsewhere, according to the decree.

Mrs. Bird was given the custody of their child with the provision that her husband be allowed temporary custody on two of each three weekends from 5 p.m. Saturday to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Dixonite Gets Vandalia Term For Bad Checks

John H. Kirby, 49, Dixon, was sentenced Wednesday to 90 days at Vandalia, state work farm, after he pleaded guilty in county court to a charge of writing bad checks.

Kirby was arraigned before Judge Grover Gehant on an information prepared by State's Attorney James Baies.

The defendant was charged with passing two bad checks in Spiegel's order office during January. The checks were for $15 and $12.

He was arrested last week by Lee county authorities who traced his whereabouts to the Peoria State hospital where he had voluntarily turned himself in as a patient.

approaching, with taxes as they are, when it will be difficult to find well qualified men to bid for jobs in Congress. And he said, the people should have the best possible men in Congress whether they have a nickel or a lot of money.

5. Said he believes there should be maximum local interest in development of such power projects as the one at Hells Canyon in Idaho. This was in a reply to a question as to whether he favored development by the Federal government or the Idaho Power Company.

Secretary of the Interior McKay announced recently his department had no objection to private construction of the power development. In the Truman administration, the Interior Department had objected.

Hawaii Proves Right
6. Said he feels that legislation to grant statehood to Hawaii should be handled separately and not combined with the Alaska statehood measure as a Senate committee voted earlier this week to do.

The move to combine the bills was sponsored by Democrats and some congressional Republicans content it was motivated by politics.

Eisenhower said Hawaii's economy is on a self-supporting basis and that its record during World War II proved its right to statehood.

7. Said the individual states have no rightful claim to submerged oil lands beyond their historic boundaries. His statement was in reply to a request for comment on whether he favors a pending bill which would establish federal jurisdiction over submerged oil lands on the continental shelf beyond the state's historic boundaries.

Congress has passed and sent to the White House legislation to give the states title within their boundaries.

Comments On UNESCO
8. Said the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization had started out with a fine announced purpose, and that while some suspicions had been aroused regarding it he has had no report on whether there is any justification for that suspicion.

Some Congress members have been critical of UNESCO, contending it has drafted proposed agreements which would infringe on U.S. internal affairs.

9. Said the latest Red rejection of United Nations armistice proposals in Korea indicates a sort of fixed attitude pointed up by their speedy rejection of terms set forth by Gen. Mark Clark, the U.N. commander in the Far East.

10. Said, in reply to a question about his views regarding recognition of Red China, that different nations have different ideas as to what constitutes recognition.

He said that for many years recognition of another nation by this country has been interpreted as tacit approval of that nation's form of government. The United States, the President added, therefore has to review each case differently than other countries might handle it.

It was Eisenhower's first news conference in two weeks. The room in the old State Department building, where he meets with reporters, was almost filled.

emphasized: a 30-minute walk is required before breakfast.

Those are all disciplinary measures that some people will find hard to comply with. If they can't, I'm afraid the "Miracle Diet," or any diet, will not do them much good.

Less Restrictions
But even the most avid diet-followers will admit that the "Miracle Diet" has less restrictions than perhaps any other they have read or tried to follow.

This morning I took two walks, instead of one. First I arose, weighed myself, and walked to church. Then, coming to work, I walked a shorter distance than I usually do. Combined they made up the full 30-minute requirement.

Tomorrow is Friday and I'll vary the diet to include fish. Here's what I will eat:

Breakfast—Halibut steak, one-half grapefruit and one cup black coffee or tea.

Lunch—Catfish, French fried potatoes, average helping, fried in animal fat and one cup black coffee or tea.

Dinner—Red snapper, one medium-sized sweet potato, boiled. One cup black coffee or tea.

Postmaster Will Attend Convention

Dixon's Postmaster Rae Arnould will leave today for Rock Island to attend a convention of the National Association of Postmasters, Illinois Chapter No. 6.

Accompanying Arnould will be John McKinstra, postmaster at Sterling.

Twister's Death Toll Now 111

WACO, Tex. — The known death tally continued to mount today as searchers dug deep into the tornado runs in downtown Waco.

Early today the 101st body was freed from the debris.

Meanwhile, Army engineers compiled these grim figures: damages estimates at 50 million dollars; 196 business and manufacturing buildings destroyed; 1,836 other buildings and homes damaged or destroyed.

In San Angelo, Tex., where another tornado struck shortly before the Waco storm, the toll stood at 10 dead—making the total of 111 tornado dead in Texas.

The 100th body was that of John William Coates, who was talking on the telephone to his pretty red-haired wife, about 24, when the twister struck. He began to describe the terrifying change in the weather. Then he cried: "Honey, the building's falling in!"

The phone went dead.

Federation of Women's Clubs Okay Illinoisan

CHICAGO — Mrs. Theodore S. Chapman of Jerseyville, Ill., has been endorsed for the presidency of the National Federation of Women's Clubs by the Illinois Federation.

If elected, Mrs. Chapman, now first vice president of the national organization, will be the first woman from Illinois to head the group in its 62-year history.

Unanimous endorsement of Mrs. Chapman was voted Wednesday during the second day of the state convention.

Business Partners Share Matrimonial Troubles in Court

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — Two business partners are partners in matrimonial troubles today.

Suits for separate maintenance were filed Wednesday against Maurice H. Friedman, 36, and Morris Samuels, 42. The wives both said they separated from their husbands May 10. The men were both ordered to appear May 22 for a hearing on community property and temporary alimony.

Mrs. Friedman charged her husband gambled excessively. She estimated her financial requirements at $2,160 monthly. Mrs. Samuels said her husband made life intolerable. She said she needs $2,033 each month. The same attorney represented both women.

Immigrant Convicted Of Slayings

ROCKFORD, Ill. — An English immigrant was convicted Wednesday night of murdering his five-year-old son with an ax just three weeks after arriving in this country.

A circuit court jury fixed a prison sentence of 99 years for Reginald Moller, 52.

Moller bashed his son, Raymond, with an ax Jan. 23 in the family home in suburban Loves Park. He also seriously injured his wife, Eni Ethel, as she lay in bed with their son.

The family immigrated from Luton, Bedfordshire, England. Mrs. Moller recovered from her wounds and has returned to England.

Judge William R. Dusher will formally sentence Moller at a later date. Henry Caldwell, Moller's attorney, said he planned an appeal.

Five Medics In Daring Heart Test

LOS ANGELES — A daring experiment on the hearts of five young Air Force doctors has opened the way for development of a new, more comfortable kind of gravity suit to prevent pilot blackouts.

The tests, conducted by Capt. Owen L. Slaughter, now of Evansville, Ind., were reported to the closing meeting of the Aero Medical Association here Wednesday.

Two long, flexible tubes called catheters were inserted through blood vessels in the neck and into the heart of each physician under test. This was done to measure the exact blood pressure in the heart while the lower halves of their bodies were being compressed as in a gravity or blackout suit.

Flight surgeons long have believed that tight-squeezing gravity suits worked by preventing the blood from crowding into the lower part of the body during high-speed dives or turns, leaving little or none in the head and causing momentary unconsciousness.

The tests showed, Dr. Slaughter said, that the gravity suit does not work that way. Instead it causes the arteries in the legs and lower abdomen to increase their resistance to blood flow. This causes increased blood pressure in the upper part of the body and makes it easier for the heart to pump blood to the brain, he reported.

As a result, Dr. Slaughter said he would suggest that gravity suits be redesigned specifically with the idea of compressing arteries in the lower part of the body.

Astronomers discovered recently that all stellar systems beyond the earth's own galaxy, the Milky Way, are twice as far away as was previously supposed.

athletics in the school and that the board should explore every possibility before declining to the field's use.

The others concurred, and another meeting with chamber representatives was arranged.

The tractor rodeo will be held on the field July 4. A contract is to be arranged with chamber officials to guarantee proper clean-up of the field after the rodeo.

It was pointed out that no animals will be included in the rodeo. The 1953-54 school term will start Sept. 8, the day after Labor day, and end June 8.

Need Students
Henry opposed dates set for Christmas vacation, Dec. 24-Jan. 3 inclusive. Henry said merchants need students to work in stores during the Christmas rush, and that with only one day of school vacation for them before Christmas they could not give the help needed.

Other members of the board found that starting the school term earlier than Sept. 8 or ending it later than June 8 would be a handicap to parents or teachers. It was added that such action would be necessary if more Christmas vacation was to be provided.

Starting the term before Sept. 8 would eliminate for many parents the ability to include the Labor day weekend in their vacation schedules, it was contended.

Completing the term past June 8 would interfere with summer school enrollment for many teachers, according to Supt. Lancaster.

Sen. McCarthy Says Britain Should Apologize for Attlee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said today Britain should apologize for what he termed a "cheap" attack by former Prime Minister Attlee on President Eisenhower and the American people.

Conservative party members of the British Parliament, McCarthy said, sat silently last Tuesday while Attlee made "one of the most insulting speeches ever made in the history of the British Empire against an ally which has been pouring out her economic life blood for practically every other nation on earth."

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, McCarthy declared: "The American people are entitled to an apology for this cheap, uncalculated, fantastic attack upon the President and people of the United States."

One by one McCarthy took up Attlee's reported declarations that

"there are elements in the United States that do not want a truce in Korea"; that the presence of Eisenhower or any American might "hinder" direct peace talks with the Russians; that "the American Constitution was framed for an isolationist state," and that "the Americans do not wish to have anything to do with Europe."

McCarthy's prepared text contained no mention of Attlee's statement that "one wonders" whether Eisenhower or McCarthy wields the greater power in U.S. foreign policy.

"What shocked me," McCarthy said, "was that no member of the majority party arose to contest what he had said."

"I shall distribute to whatever senators who desire it," McCarthy said, "a copy of a picture of Attlee reviewing Communist troops in Spain in 1937 with Communist Gen. Miaja and Commissar Anton, a leader of the Communist party in Spain, all three giving the Communist clenched-fist salute."

Act Of Courtesy? "But lest someone think Attlee's Communist salute was merely an act of courtesy on his part, I have here a letter in Attlee's own handwriting. . . . He first praises in glowing terms the Communist brigade and extolls its devotion to the 'cause of freedom and social justice.'"

"And listen to this closing paragraph: 'I shall try to tell our comrades at home of what I have seen.'"

"Comrade" is a Communist term meaning fellow Communist," McCarthy went on: "Perhaps Mr. Attlee forgets that the U. S. has suffered 130,000 casualties in Korea, while the British figure is roughly 3,700."

"In connection with this statement that there are elements in the U. S. who do not want a truce in Korea, Comrade Attlee knows full well that this nation which has contributed so much in agony, blood and tears . . . does want peace in Korea and peace throughout the world, but peace with honor—peace without surrender."

Cites U. S. Spending "This country that Attlee calls isolationist—which he says wants nothing to do with the rest of the world," McCarthy said, "has given since the end of the shooting part of World War II what would amount to $61,643 for every day since before Christ was born."

Those figures, he said, dramatize the lump sum totals of 39 billions of foreign aid already provided, and the administration request for six billions more.

McCarthy renewed his denunciation of British trade with Red China. He said a recent edition of the London Sunday Express reported British exports to China in January were valued at 1,200,000 pounds sterling, compared with 71,000 pounds a year earlier. He referred then to a letter from Secretary of Defense Wilson made public recently contending that any trade with the Chinese helps their ability to make war.

Train Sleep Costs Life

MASSAPEQUA, N. Y. (AP)—Commuter James E. Fagan's nap led to his death.

The 49-year-old telephone company official was slumbering Wednesday night when the train reached his stop.

As the train pulled out he awakened and ran to the door. He leaped and landed on the platform.

Then, before other commuters could give him a hand, he lost his balance, teetered backward and was crushed under the wheels.

There were 1,466,000,000 (B) bushels of corn on U. S. farms April 1, 1953.

Clergymen Pay Full Air Fare

WASHINGTON (AP)—The odds are against them, but the priests and rabbis being paid as well as your bank president, but the reverent gentlemen can ride on a train or bus at reduced rates.

When he travels by air, however, the clergyman pays the same fare as the banker or anybody else.

This is all wrong, says Rep. McConnell (R-Pa.), an investment banker and the son of a Methodist minister.

McConnell told the House Commerce Committee Wednesday.

"I have always put members of the clergy on a pedestal. Their remuneration is such that they are entitled to special consideration by the airlines just as they are by the other carriers."

McConnell testified in support of his own bill which would permit the airlines to cut prices for clergymen, something they're forbidden to do now by the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938.

On hand to oppose McConnell's bill was Stuart G. Tipton, general counsel of the Air Transport Association.

Tipton said he yielded to no one in his admiration of churchmen. But he said times have changed:

"Few, if any ministers serve a parish or community so extensive that it is necessary for them to travel by air in the furtherance of their day-to-day parochial duties."

July Draft Call 23,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army draft call for July is 23,000, the lowest since last June's record low of 10,000.

The July call, issued Wednesday brings to 1,469,430 the number of men drafted or earmarked for induction since Selective Service was resumed after the Korean War started in mid-1950.

All but 81,430 of these, who went into the Marines during a 10-month period, were called for the Army.

The Defense Department said the lower draft for July is in line with the reduced military budget for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Dan Moore Resigns as Coach at Lee Center

Accepts Job As Football, Track Coach

To Set Up, Direct P. E. Classes at Wayland, Mich.

LEE CENTER—Dan Moore, Lee Center coach, announced yesterday that he has resigned his position to accept a post at Wayland, Mich., a town near Grand Rapids. Moore will be responsible for organizing and directing physical education classes at the new school and coaching the football and track teams.

The Lee Center mentor reported that Wayland has not had physical education classes in the past and it will be his job to set up the program and direct it.

The Wayland school system has 330 in the high school and 500 in the elementary grades. Moore will set up the program for both.

Moore had been in Lee Center for one year, where he coached basketball and baseball.

Prior to his job here, he worked at youth camps, YMCA's and did church youth work.

In 1937, he was a member of the Austin high school football team which won the mythical national championship and the Chicago city title.

In gaining the national crown, Austin defeated a team from Jackson, Miss., in a post-season game. He played with Bill DeCorrevant, once regarded in a class with Red Grange and company. Moore played left halfback when DeCorrevant was out and quarterback at other times.

He graduated from Wheaton college where he played three years of football, basketball and baseball.

He received his master's degree from Northwestern university in guidance and secondary school administration.

Milwaukee Wins, Takes 2nd Place

By the Associated Press
The 1,900-mile westward shift from Boston to Milwaukee has worked wonders for the once-down trodden ball club that finished a dismal seventh in the National League last year.

Today's standings show the Milwaukee Braves only half a game out of first place. They have won seven out of eight at home.

In home dates the club has drawn 172,781 cash customers. Last year's total attendance in Boston was 281,778.

Beat Giants 11-1
Wednesday, with the thermometer shivering at 39 degrees, 9,013 turned out to watch the Braves smother the New York Giants, 11-1.

Milwaukee moved into second place over Brooklyn, which was frozen out of its scheduled game at Chicago. Rain and wet grounds also caused the postponement of the other two National League contests—Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and Philadelphia at St. Louis.

In the American League the New York Yankees won their third straight over Cleveland, 9-4, dropping the Indians into third place. Boston whipped Chicago, 3-0, and Philadelphia broke its seven-game losing streak at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, 2-1. A night game at Washington between the Senators and the Detroit Tigers was rained out.

Shut out on one hit the previous night, Cleveland came up with four runs in the first four innings against the Yankees Wednesday. Then its pitching folded and by the end of seven the Yanks were ahead to stay.

Marv Grissom handcuffed the White Sox on four hits for Boston. Despite the loss Chicago moved over Cleveland into second place. An eighth-inning home run by Eddie Joost provided the victory margin for the Athletics over the Browns.

Some Gift, Rocky

BROCKTON, Mass.—Heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano gave a $1,600, 30-inch television set to his church Wednesday—and the gift helped land the pastor in a hospital.

The Rev. Leloy V. Conroy, 62, pastor of St. Columban's Catholic church, was helping set up the TV on the parish hall stage so some 700 children could see Marciano defend his title against Jersey Joe Walcott Friday night. "Father Conroy fell three feet off the stage and suffered a broken leg."

Chicago Favored at State

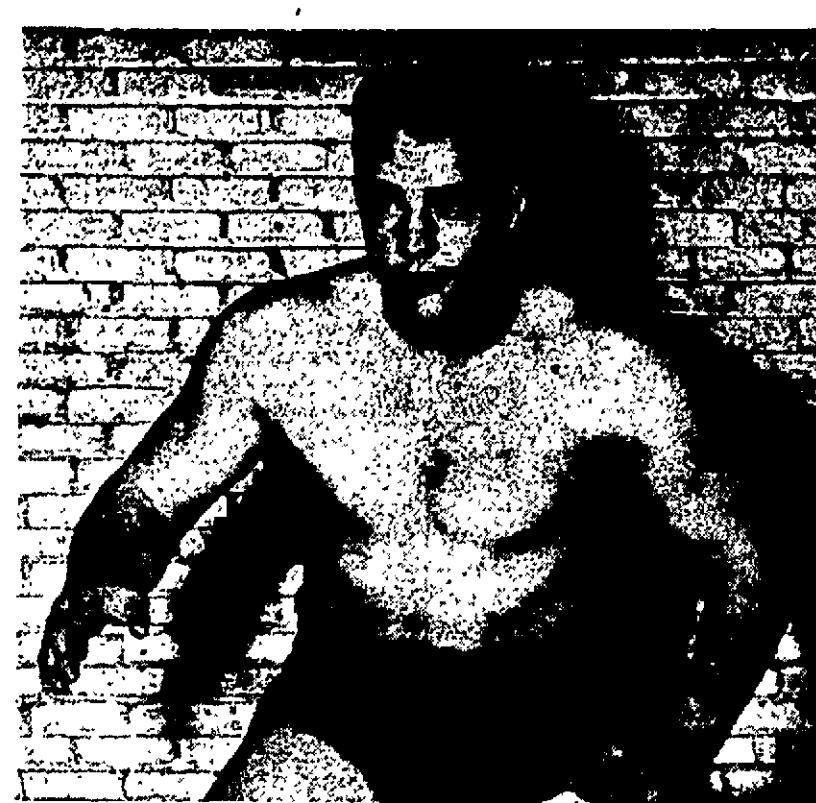

Area Teams Dominate Since 1927

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Chicago area teams are expected to dominate the state high school track, golf and tennis championships this weekend as nearly 1,000 athletes engage in the big prep meets.

Defending champion LaGrange and Chicago's Wendell Phillips are favored to continue monopoly of the track and field title that they started in 1948. Evanston and Oak Park rank as top challengers.

Not since 1927 when Rockford won the crown has an out-of-Chicago area school captured track honors. The last time a downstate entry won was in 1925 when Danville and Eldorado tied.

Verne Gagne

Mighty Atlas

Expect Gagne To Deflate Ego Mighty Atlas

An egotistical bundle of muscles is what they call the Mighty Atlas, Brooklyn strong boy who comes here tonight to face Verne Gagne in a mat affair sponsored by the Lions club.

Gagne is expected to deflate Atlas by dint of his speed and science. But before the 60-minute time limit match is ended, Atlas should give spectators a rousing show. According to Atlas himself, "I've been hooted in Florida, stamped in California, and almost chased out of New York arenas."

But each time, the fans were on their feet, displaying emotional outbursts.

The muscle festivity will get under way at 8:30 p.m., with a bout between Reggie Lisowski of Wisconsin and Johnny Balbo of LaGrange, followed by Billy Goetz of Fox Lake meeting Benito Gardini of Baltimore. The latter pairing should be a rough-and-tumble thing, and like the Atlas-Gagne match, it will pit scientific grappling against mauling tactics.

Hub Golfers Top Newman, Mt. Morris

MT. MORRIS.—(Special)—The Rochelle Hubs golf team rolled easily to wins over Mt. Morris and Newman of Sterling yesterday while Mt. Morris defeated Newman in a triangular match.

Jim Sliether, Rochelle, was the day's medalist with a 78 for the 18 hole course. He won 3-0 over George Greb of Newman but had to settle for a 2-1-1/2 verdict over Dick Spink, Mt. Morris. Spink was low for the Mounders with an 80 while Greb led Newman with a 91.

The summary:
Jim Sliether (R), 78, defeated Dick Spink (M), 80, 2-1-1/2. Sliether defeated George Greb (N), 91, 3-0. Spink defeated Greb 3-0.

Kay Draper, Dave Haas Chief Hopes

Henry Utley Will Battle in Tennis Singles Series

Dixon area track and tennis aspirants began working toward state titles tomorrow morning when the preliminaries in track will be held and the first tennis round swings into action.

Dixon and Oregon will each send five men to the track meet with the Dukes entering three events and the Hawks four. Amboy and Rochelle each enter a man in one event.

In tennis, Dixon's Henry Utley will begin the long grind toward a place in the singles spotlight while Rochelle's Galen Kruger and Burley Smith start on the doubles competition.

Haas in 110
Oregon's Dave Haas is the most promising area track candidate. According to comparative times, Dave rates fifth in the state and is regarded as a top contender in the 440 yard dash. He will be running up against tough competition but it is believed that the Hawk runner thrives on being pushed.

Kay Draper, Dixon, if he can get out of the starting blocks fast enough could turn the tables in the 100 yard dash. It has been reported that the top-rated dash man, Roger Severson, Ottawa, pulled a muscle in the district meet and may not be ready for the state.

Draper Under 110
Draper has been clocked at under 10 seconds this year and with a good start, he should be able to get up among the leaders.

The next best hope at state is the Oregon relay team which includes Bob Hanes, Don Pazera, Dick Johnston and Haas. This team is not among the state leaders by district times, but with Haas running anchor, the Hawk team cannot be counted out.

Others making the trip but not rated as much of a threat: The Dixon 880 relay team of Kay Elyne, Bob Hamill, John Petry and Draper; Clarence Busser, Dixon and Donny Koch, Amboy, pole vault; Dick Becker, Oregon, high jump; Bob Hanes, Oregon, 440; and Del Starnes, Rochelle, discus.

PEP GETS $6,000, Blackeye for Win

FT. WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Willie Pep got a black eye and about $6,000 in outpointing Jack Blair of Dallas in a nationally televised 10-round fight Wednesday night.

Pep's speed and experience gave him all except one round over the tough and willing Dallas puncher. The 30-year-old former world's featherweight champion was the aggressor virtually all the way, opened cuts over Blair's left eye, bloodied his nose and had him staggering once.

WHAT'S THE SCORE

LEE CENTER COACH DAN MOORE will have quite a job on his hands when he takes over as physical education director at Wayland, Michigan. But with his background as former YMCA director and camp director along with his high school coaching work, Moore should be fully capable.

However, Moore won't have much of a vacation this year as he will report to his new post shortly after school is out to begin laying the foundation for his program.

ODDLY ENOUGH, MOORE COACHED TWO SPORTS HERE and will coach two at Wayland, but they will be two different ones. Moore coached basketball at Lee Center, switching from track to baseball as a spring sport for Lee Center. Now at Wayland he will be in charge of football and track.

LEE CENTER HAS WOUND UP probably one of the shortest baseball seasons in history. The school played just two games and lost both with all other games being washed out. A surprise thunder storm Tuesday at Pawpaw while the rest of us were enjoying warm weather cancelled the final scheduled game of the season for the Bulldogs and Moore said that none of the rained out games would be rescheduled.

Lee Center did not enter district baseball play because this year the squad played without the benefit of uniforms.

STEWART WINDS UP ITS BASEBALL CAMPAIGN today with a game at Pawpaw this afternoon if weather permits. The Bluejays, hampered by injuries all season, were eliminated from the district tournament recently by Serena, 6-2.

AT THIS POINT, we'd like to inject a note wishing the area boys who will be entered in the state track and tennis meets at Champaign, all the best of luck. We'll be rooting for them all the way.

HERE'S A NOTE ON THE CANAL. The state constitution bars the Illinois legislature from spending any state funds on the Illinois and Mississippi canal. Atty. Gen. Latham Castle held recently.

His formal opinion went to Rep. Orville G. Chapman, chairman of the Illinois-Mississippi canal and Sinissippi lake commission.

Castle noted that there has been no congressional action to authorize the waterway's abandonment.

The opinion held that the federal government could convey its fluvial rights in the Sinissippi lake area to the state.

THESE RIGHTS WOULD CONTINUE in existence, it said, only so long as overflow continues from or because of maintenance of the canal and the dam across the Rock river.

Jersey Joe to Read Bible, Rocky to Nap Before Bout

CHICAGO (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott planned to spend much of today reading his Bible while Rocky Marciano cat-napped on the day before their heavyweight championship bout in Chicago Stadium.

Officials of the sponsoring International Boxing Club were sweating out a hoped-for ticket sale of $500,000 and needed to dispose of about $125,000 before fight time Friday to make it. Some 5,000 seats at the $50 top and 1,900 at $30 still lacked buyers.

The second meeting of Walcott, boxing's most famous antique, and champion Marciano, will be televised over NBC with Chicago and Milwaukee blacked out. It will be broadcast on the ABC network. Fight time is 8 p. m. CST.

Marciano will receive a straight 30 per cent of the gate, the $200,000 for TV and radio rights and royalties accruing from third-dimensional films. Walcott has settled for a $250,000 guarantee with an additional 30 per cent of the movie receipts. Unless there is a complete sellout he will get more than the champion.

It is the general opinion that Jersey Joe had his greatest fight last September in Philadelphia when he knocked down Marciano in the first round and was well ahead on points until the Brockton blaster chilled him with a right in the 13th to win the heavyweight crown.

Most of the experts don't see how the 39-year-old pappy guy, entering his eighth title scrap and his sixth as a challenger, can be that good again. Odds-makers back this up by making 25-year-old Marciano a 3-1 favorite.

'God-Willing' Joe
Being an underdog is nothing new to Walcott, father of six children who has been in the ring 23 years.

"God willing, I will be the first heavyweight champion ever to regain his title," Joe says. Ringbirds say that his only hope of winning is to last the full 15 rounds, depending on his much better boxing finesse to pile up decisive points. But is it highly questionable if he can evade the rugged, durable and younger Marciano for that long.

Walcott knocked him down but could not knock him out eight months ago. Rocky still has the same granite jaw. The short-armed powerful champion also has that same vicious right hand capable of scoring a kayo with one blow.

Walcott has spent much time sharpening up a left jab. The target for it will be Marciano's nose, untested by a punch since a spar made it bleed enough to cause a five weeks postponement of the bout.

CHICAGO (AP)—League-leading Iowa, winner of five of its six games, takes to the road this week end to meet second-division clubs in the Big Ten baseball race.

The Hawkeyes play at Wisconsin (3-2) Friday and have a Saturday doubleheader at Northwestern (2-3).

Illinois and Ohio State, each with 7-2 records, will tangle in a pivotal three-game series at Illinois. A single game Friday will be followed by a doubleheader Saturday.

Ohio State leads the Big Ten in hitting with .302, followed by Michigan (.6-3) with .591 and Iowa with .271. Iowa tops team fielding with .982.

The standings: W L Pct.

Plan Atila Movie

MANILA (AP)—Manuel Conde, Filipino film producer, director and actor, has been hired by an Italian movie company to make a Philippine-Italian film.

He is to co-produce, co-write, direct and star in "Attila, the Hun," a color world-release picture to be filmed in Italy, France, Germany and Spain with an international cast.

Conde first became known among world movie-makers when he attended last year's Venice film festival where his Philippine-made movie, "Genghis Khan," won acclaim.

Another bill affecting motorists was called for passage but postponed by its sponsors after it ran into trouble.

The proposal would provide for issuance of special drivers licenses to 16 and 17 year olds, limiting them to operating their parents' car and only during daylight hours.

House Rejects Single License Plate Proposal

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois House Wednesday turned down a proposal to allow the secretary of state at his discretion to issue automobile license plates singly instead of in pairs.

Rep. John K. Morris (D-Chadwick) called the bill an economy measure and said that saving up to $200,000 a year might result.

Opponents contended having just one plate — on the rear of an automobile — instead of two would hinder law enforcement. Rep. Reed F. Cutler (R-Lewistown) said this would be "false economy."

Court Reform Plan to Face 'Tough Sledding'

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (AP) — Despite Governor Stratton's endorsement, a bar plan for court reform today clearly was in for tough sledding in the Illinois General Assembly.

Minority Democrats in the Senate were working on a rival resolution of their own and signs quickly appeared that several of the governor's legislative followers might kick over the traces.

Any proposal for changing the state Constitution faces a stern barrier in the Assembly. It needs a two-thirds favorable vote of both Senate and House to get on the ballot for a vote of the people.

In a statement read at a Senate Executive Committee hearing, Stratton said Tuesday he would "submerge" some personal objections and support the bar version on overhauling the state court system.

Obtaining some sort of judicial revision was "paramount," he said.

Swing Into Line
After the word from the governor, senators who helped draw up an alternate proposal to the one advanced by a joint committee of the Chicago and Illinois Bar Association swung into line behind the chief executive.

However, some of their Republican colleagues joined hostile Democrats in hurling criticisms at the "agree" resolution. The committee put off a decision until after opponents are heard on Tuesday.

These are main proposals in the bar plan:
1. Substitute appointment for election of judges, who would be named by the governor from lists of nominees submitted by special commissions and run against their record for repeat terms.

Abolish Offices
2. Do away with justice of the peace, police magistrate, city, county and probate courts, leaving only circuit, appellate and the Supreme courts.

Associate circuit judges would take the place of county judges, and salaried magistrates of fee judicial officers.
3. Vest increased administrative powers in the Supreme Court, including the right to transfer judges to equalize judicial work loads.

Sen. William J. Lynch, Democratic minority leader, said his party next week will propose instead that judges continue to be elected as under the present setup, but with some modifications.

Lynch said the Democratic resolution will favor direct election of judges for three year initial terms, and then running against their record for additional six year terms.

Prohibits Coalitions
Coalition candidacies, wherein Republicans and Democrats consent to identical slates, would be prohibited.

Democrats in the Senate lack the numerical strength to block the administration supported plan. At least 17 of their votes — and probably more — would be needed to tip it over in the House.

Three downstate Republicans ripped into various features of the bar proposal at the executive committee hearing as did two Chicago Democrats.

One was Sen. Dennis J. Collins (R-DeKalb). Collins said that if citizens are entrusted with the responsibility of choosing senators, governors, congressmen and legislators who make the laws then they ought to elect the judges who interpret the laws.

Why Elections?
"If appointment is a good policy for judges, then why should we elect any state officials?" he asked. "Why shouldn't they be appointed and then run on their record?"

Sen. Clyde C. Trager (R-Peoria) objected that the proposed arrangement would cost taxpayers more, and Sen. John Meyer (R-Danville) said its laudable purposes might be thwarted by corrupting influences.

Sen. Roland V. Libonati and Sen. Donald J. O'Brien, Chicago Democrats, criticized other aspects. Libonati said the governor would be given too much power.

Witnesses favoring the plan included Floyd E. Thompson of Chicago, a former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme Court; Paul Mathias, Illinois Agricultural Association; Samuel W. Witwer, Citizens of Greater Chicago; Barnabas F. Sears, Aurora, chairman of the joint bar committee, and Mrs. Brunson McChesney, Evanston, representing several women's organizations.

Lauds Proposal
A statement read in behalf of Dean Albert J. Harno of the University of Illinois College of Law called the proposal "the most constructive program for the selection of judges of outstanding caliber ever proposed in the United States."

Its adoption, Harno said, would "place the judiciary of Illinois in the forefront of the nation."

Italian Film Pay

ROME (AP) — Salaries of Italian movie stars are modest by Hollywood standards, but they compare pretty well after taxes. Italy's two greatest draws — Anna Magnani and Gina Lollobrigida — receive $61,000 a picture. That's one third what a top U. S. star could draw.

Salary figures, a closely guarded secret in Hollywood, were released by the Italian Films Export board — much to the displeasure of the Italian stars and their agents.

Italian stars pay few taxes. A good guess is an Italian star pays about 15 per cent to the government. A top American star would be giving Uncle Sam five times that much.

State May Return 5,000 Senile Patients to Homes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (AP) — The welfare department director aims to eliminate some aged patients from over-crowded mental hospitals, he indicated Tuesday to the Illinois senate appropriations committee.

Dr. Otto Bettag, the director, said that 5,000 senile patients may be discharged and returned to the care of their relatives.

The committee approved by a 17 to 1 vote the Republican state administration's $116,820,900 outlay for the department for the two years starting July 1.

'False Economy'
Bettag testified he had "fought vigorously" for a 136 million dollar appropriation to operate the department "at desirable, high level standards." The amount was cut by about 20 millions by the budgetary commission.

The dissenting voter, Sen. William J. Lynch, Democratic minority leader from Chicago, said the appropriation was too little "and false economy."

'Overcrowded'
Lynch asked Bettag if state mental hospitals with about 47,000 patients aren't "overcrowded." "According to some standards," Bettag replied.

"We're going to try to keep out those who shouldn't come in, to get rid of those who should never have been admitted and to discharge those who have been cured." Bettag said.

"We have a distinct feeling we can discharge 5,000 patients who do not belong there," he said, alluding to senile patients. Sen. Frank Johnson (R-Kewanee) had inquired if the patient load did not include many older persons who once were cared for at home.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — The Illinois General Assembly has been asked to approve a 10 cent fee for each adult person and automobile admitted to eight state parks.

Peoria School Board Votes to Trim All Frills

PEORIA (AP)—School may have no frills in Peoria next term.

The Peoria board of education, caught in a squeeze between a limited tax ceiling and rising costs, voted to slash $225,000 worth of school services from the 1953-54 program which starts in September.

The drastic cuts resulted in a protest parade by some 50 school pupils, led by a band, who waved placards bearing such admonishments as "Don't take our kindergarten away," and "Don't set Peoria back 30 years."

The economy plan would abolish kindergarten in the city's schools. Other curtailments adopted by the board include: abandonment of instrumental music instruction in all schools; dropping of vocal music instruction in elementary schools; dropping of catalogues from the school libraries; elimination of dental and vision checkups, curtailment of athletic coaching funds, cancellation of vocational and driver education and elimination of school papers and yearbooks.

Some 4,000 Peoria residents have signed petitions protesting the economy cuts.

ELIZABETH the Queen

By Marion Crawford
Former Governess to Her Majesty

VIII
It is usually the wife who spreads oil on the troubled waters of a marriage. She likes to hear her husband praised, hates to feel a tension growing in her house when he is cross or short with visitors, as may well happen if he is not well. Men are very vocal about their aches and pains.

How much greater is the strain on a Royal wife! I have a deep admiration for Prince Philip as a grown man. He has qualities I greatly admire, but many of them are not fashioned for court use. He is frank and outspoken, keen to be on with the next thing, and impatient of flattery. He hates unnecessary fuss and all publicity.

The fanfare which heralds his every move now must be torture to him. But it was the small price he gladly paid for marrying the woman he loved—to step out of the cheerful, semi-obscure life of the navy into the brightest spotlight the world has ever known.

But one sometimes forgets. It is then that the wife has to step forward and smooth the path. Like her mother, Queen Elizabeth has this quality of sympathetic tact, highly developed.

"Come on, darling," her eyes seem to say. "Stick it just a little while longer."

Few who have not seen the effect it may have can appreciate the strain of always living in the public eye. When you or I marry we make our arrangements in private, marry among our friends and relatives, and honeymoon quietly in the place of our choice. But for Royalty things are never so simple.

Princess Elizabeth's engagement period was an exhausting time for her. There were so many things to attend to that she simply had to break off sometimes.

Even before the engagement, when nothing had been decided, the Princess had many uncomfortable moments in public when she overheard remarks about a possible "love match."

But at last everything was decided. The arrangements for the wedding brought great activity to the palace and these too were things of public interest.

Even while on their honeymoon Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were pestered by photographers and curious tourists who made special journeys to try to catch a glimpse of them.

It was not until they at last got up to Birkhall, a house belonging to the King near Balmoral, that they were able to be really alone.

The native courtesy of the Scots countryfolk showed itself in their tact. They left the Royal couple entirely to themselves.

It was winter, and snow was on the ground. Princess Elizabeth wrote me a charming letter. The countryside was lovely, she said, far more beautiful than it had been when we were up there at about the same time of year at the beginning of the war. They had a new puppy, Rummy, with them, who was enjoying himself romping about in the snow.

It must have been a happy time for them, left completely alone together for the first time in their lives.

But that particular kind of "being alone" happiness could not last long; soon they were back in the center of things, doing their great work in the world.

It has become much easier for me to see the Princess as a person since I left the palace and began my married life in the first home of my own I have ever had.

What matters most to all of us now is the character of the woman who, by the grace of God, now guides the destiny of many lands.

How often we see her smiling! Her smile is as much part of her as her lovely complexion and the features that startlingly recall to most people the pictures of the great Queen Victoria when she was young.

I see other resemblances as well. She is very like her aunt, Lady

Rose Granville, who had a home at Dunfermline, not far from my mother's house.

Later, Lady Rose and her husband moved to London and took a pleasant, narrow house at 100 Park street, where I used to go when I felt the need of peace and quiet.

Lady Rose was understanding. She knew how greatly I missed my Scottish hills, and how I liked sometimes to be alone.

She gave me a latchkey to the house. "Use the place whenever you wish," she said in her charming, soft voice, so like the Queen's. "It may not bring you the heather, but at least you will be quiet here."

Lady Rose is one of the most beautiful women I have ever seen. Even in middle age her skin is perfect. The artist Laszlo has captured it in a portrait which hung over the drawing room fireplace of the London house.

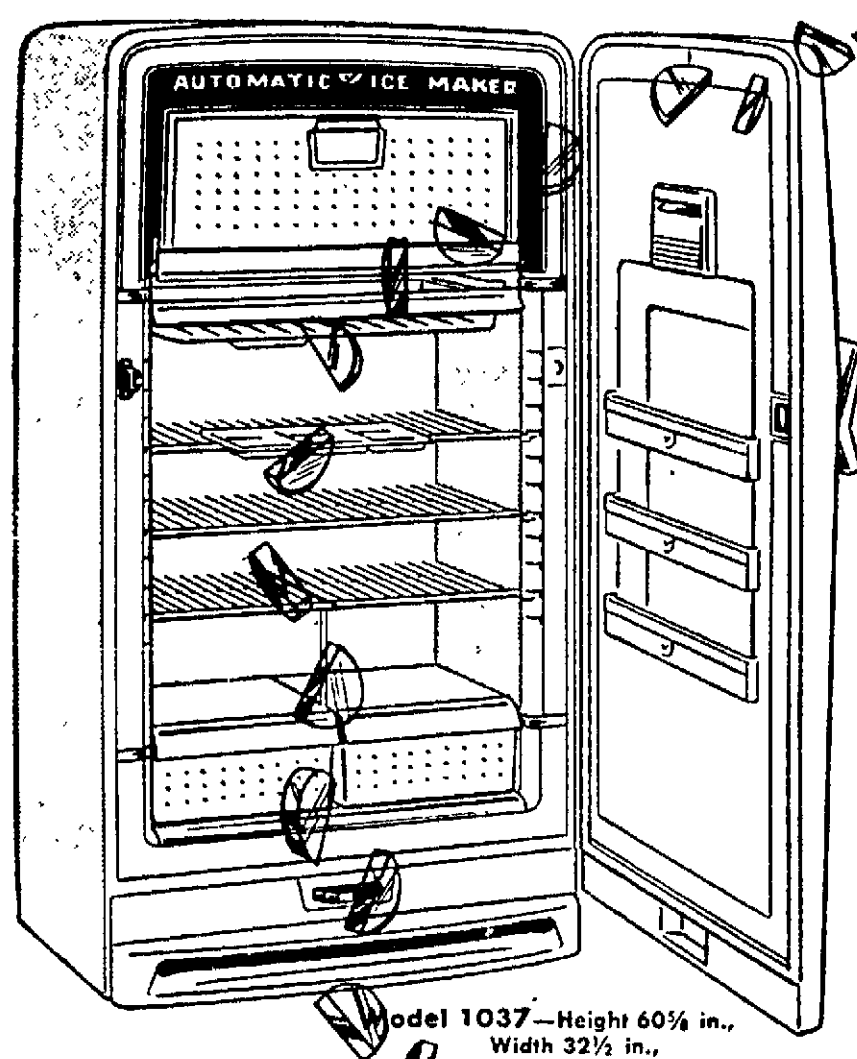

I knew that picture long ago when Queen Elizabeth was a child. Even then how like she was to her aunt! And as the child grew up she resembled more and more the lovely woman of the picture, with gracious, curving neck and shining, candle-clear complexion—an almost ethereal skin, through which the warmth of health seems to shine.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh acknowledge cheers of thousands outside Buckingham Palace following their wedding. To the left of Princess Elizabeth are her father, King George VI, and Princess Alexandra, a bridesmaid. Lady Mary Cambridge, another bridesmaid, is to the rear. To the right of the Duke stand Queen Elizabeth and Queen Mary, mother and grandmother of the bride.

One of 22 Persons on A Government Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau says some 7,105,000 persons were on federal, state or local government payrolls when it took a survey last October—that is, one out of every 22 persons in the United States.

The largest number of government employees was the group working for local governments, including cities, counties, school districts, townships and special districts. That total here was 3,418,000.

Next came the federal government civilian payroll totalling 2,583,000. The states employed 1,103,000.

These included part time employees.

The Census Bureau report gave these details:

More than one-fourth of all public employees are teachers or other educational employees. The next biggest group, comprising a fifth of public employment, are civilian employees of federal defense agencies.

National defense and the postal service account for 71 per cent of all federal employment. Health and hospitals, public welfare and natural resources account for another 13.8 per cent of federal employment and for 14.4 per cent of all state and local jobs.

In the twelve months ending last October, employment and payrolls of the federal government showed little change. However, state and local employment grew 5.5 per cent during the 12 months and in October those payrolls were 11.5 per cent above payrolls in October, 1951.

Total public payrolls in the twelve months ending last October amounted to more than 22 billion dollars, including 10 billion dollars to federal civilian employees, three billions for state payrolls, and the other nine billions for local public payrolls.

Of every 1,000 persons in the United States, there were 15 working as civilian employees of the federal government and 29 as state and local employees in October, 1952. These included part time workers. The Census Bureau did not have figures for federal employment on a full time basis. But it said that state and local employment on a full time basis equaled 26 persons per 1,000 population. This differed considerably from state to state. In Kentucky there were 19 state and local government employees on a full time basis per 1,000 of population while there were 35 per 1,000 in Nevada.

On Ship's Time

WELLFLEET, Mass. (AP)—The first thoughts of a summer visitor at Wellfleet, on Cape Cod, when he hears the First Congregational Church clock strike this year may be that the clock is out of order.

At 2 p.m., for instance, the clock strikes four. Which is just what the townsfolk of Wellfleet want it to strike at that hour.

For the people of Wellfleet voted to install a clock which would strike ship's time. Using ship's time, the Wellfleet clock divides the day into six-four-hour watches and the bell, sounding at half-hour intervals, shows the progress of each watch. Thus, it will strike one at 12:30 a.m., at 4:30 a.m., at 8:30 a.m., 12:30 p.m., etc. A half hour after these times, two strokes are sounded. Finally, the sounding of eight bells indicates that it is either 4 a.m., 8 a.m., 12 noon, 4 p.m., 8 p.m., or midnight.

Posse Rides Again

MIAMI, Ariz. (AP)—Sheriff's possemen still ride horses in Arizona.

Thirty-seven members of the Gila county sheriff's posse recently completed an 85-mile, three-day practice ride through rough, mountainous terrain in east-central Arizona. Longest day's ride was 30 miles on the final day.

60-Day 'Cooling Off' Period In Divorces Okayed by Senate

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A 60-day "cooling off" period in divorce cases involving children was unanimously approved Wednesday by the Illinois senate. The bill moved to the house.

The legislation is aimed at retarding the breakup of families and thereby reducing juvenile delinquency.

Under the bill, a person would have to serve formal notice two months in advance of filing an action for divorce, annulment or separate maintenance affecting the custody, support or welfare of minor children.

During the waiting period, the judge could call in the prospective litigants, with their consent, for conferences looking toward adjustment of differences.

At his discretion, the judge could waive the waive the "cooling off" period.

By a 38 to 4 vote, the senate approved and referred to the house a bill designed to establish new controls over rabies.

The bill provides for inoculation of dogs running at large against the disease, and after June 1, 1954, any such dog found to lack an anti-rabies tag could be impounded.

Owners of impounded pets would be obliged to pay the cost of inoculation plus board for the period of custody. The proposal would not apply to dogs on leash or muzzled when at liberty.

Also approved by the senate were bills to:

Set up a 15-member, $50,000 legislative commission to study fluctuating water levels on the Great Lakes for the purpose of recommending ways of preventing continued shoreline property damage.

Create a 10-member, $15,000 legislative study group to make suggestions on the policy the state should adopt toward educational television.

Appropriate $70,500 for a sewage disposal plant at Sheridan, where the Illinois State Reformatory is located.

Provide for supervision by the state auditor of funds paid to companies in prepayment of burial expenses.

Restrictions Relaxed on District Roads

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—The Illinois Senate Wednesday received a House approved bill to relax restrictions on the handling of the township and road district share of state gasoline tax receipts.

The measure passed the House Tuesday by a vote of 118 to 18. About 11 1/2 million dollars a year in state funds are involved.

Under the present arrangement, township road money is held by the state until proposed projects are cleared by county and state authorities, and then turned over to county treasurers for disbursement.

The bill sponsored by 11 rural lawmakers would make funds directly available to local road units, which would be allowed to deduct 2 per cent for handling.

It would cut the local qualifying tax rate from 10 cents to eight cents a $100 property valuation, and permit local highway commissioners rather than county boards to let contracts.

Rep. Richard Stengel (D-Rock Island) led opposition to the bill. He said weakening of county and state supervision over spending of money for rural roads might lead to misuse that would raise demands for cutting off state funds to townships, first given a share of the state gas tax in 1951.

Farm leaders believe that uncooked garbage is a leading cause of hog diseases and recommend that garbage fed to hogs be cooked.

A Statement by Robert B. Dresser -- An Explanation of the Proposals to Limit by Constitutional Amendment the Taxing Power of Congress.

There recently appeared in the newspapers of the country a widely published article headed "25% Tax Limit Move Viewed as Failing—Survey Shows 25 States Oppose Ceiling on U. S. Levies, While 12 Back It—Eleven Have Yet to Act."

This article, like others that have appeared from time to time, shows an unfortunate lack of understanding of the movement, or more accurately movements, to limit the taxing power of Congress and their present status.

Causes

Let us consider the causes that have led to these movements.

The legitimate function of taxation is to raise revenue, not to change or destroy a system of society.

Marx Prepared the Way

One hundred years ago Karl Marx published his Communist Manifesto attacking the capitalistic system with its right of private property. Among the ten planks in his platform were the following:

1. "A heavy progressive or graduated income tax."
 2. "Abolition of all right of inheritance."
- By these means Marx knew that he could dry up the sources of private capital which are essential to the continued existence of the capitalistic system, and thereby destroy it and substitute Communism in its place.
- For the past two decades the federal government has been following the course prescribed by Marx by imposing a "heavy progressive or graduated income tax," and while not abolishing the right of inheritance, the federal government has been increasing the rates of the death taxes until the top rate is now 77%.

The progression in income tax rates from the beginning rate of 22.2% to 92% is progression of a most extreme character. It not only confiscates the larger incomes, but it bears most heavily on the middle incomes, the group at which Marx particularly aimed in his advocacy of heavy, graduated income taxes.

As Dr. Harley Lutz, formerly Professor of Public Finance at Princeton University, has stated in one of his publications, the present "income tax rate scales" constitute "an ideal application of the Marxian doctrine of crushing the middle class—the 'bourgeoisie.'" Marx realized that this group would offer the most formidable resistance to his Communist revolution. They are too numerous to be liquidated outright, though not numerous enough to protect themselves by political action. The simplest and most effective procedure is to destroy them by excessive taxation."

Must Bring Socialism

Reason and the experience of other nations, and most recently that of England, demonstrate beyond all question that unless our policy of taxation is changed the system of society under which this country has prospered and grown great will come to an end and some form of socialism or Communism will supplant it.

No citizen who values his liberty can view the present situation with anything but alarm. Our present tax laws must be changed so as to eliminate the heavy progression in income tax rates and the confiscatory death taxes. That is precisely what the proposals under consideration are designed to do.

The purpose is not to untax the rich, as is so often charged, but to preserve the liberty of the American people and their constitutional form of government.

This is just as important to those with small incomes as it is to those with medium-sized and large incomes. It is this system that has made possible the high wages and the high scale of living for the people of this country.

Moreover, these proposals, if adopted, would restore to the states the power to be financially independent and to free themselves from federal domination. Instead of permitting the federal government to "hog" the revenue and hand back part of it to the states on conditions, the states could and should raise and spend the revenue themselves.

In limiting the power of Congress to tax, however, care must be taken not to impair its power to raise the revenue needed to run the government and balance the budget. The problem, therefore, is to find an amendment which will deprive Congress of the power to continue the Marxian system of taxation and at the same time not impair its power to raise needed revenue.

Two Separate Movements Now in Progress

There are in progress at the present time two distinct movements to secure the adoption of such a tax limitation amendment. One is through action by the state legislatures requesting Congress to call a convention to propose the amendment. The other is through action by Congress directly proposing an amendment for ratification by the States. These are the two methods of amendment provided by Article V of the Constitution. The amendments proposed in the two movements are quite different, a fact that is generally overlooked.

Most of the published articles deal only with the first movement. This is true of the newspaper article above referred to, which, as I shall later point out, deals with the subject quite inaccurately.

Amendment Sought by the States

In general the amendment sought by the state legislatures limits the power of Congress to impose income, death and gift taxes to a maximum rate of 25%, with power, however, by a three-fourths vote of each House to suspend the limitation completely during a major war. Under this form of amendment the top rate is rigidly limited to 25%, except in case of a major war. No other "emergency" can be used as a ground for suspending the limitation. The numerous so-called "emergencies" during the past twenty years were a clear warning that such a power would render the amendment valueless.

However, there might be an "emergency" other than war that would make it desirable to exceed the 25% rate.

First Reed-Dirksen Amendment

Accordingly, in September, 1951, Congressman Chauncey W. Reed, of Illinois, in order to provide for the possible occurrence of such an "emergency," introduced a resolution proposing an amendment which differed from the amendment proposed by the states in several important respects. It limited the power of Congress to impose income taxes in peacetime to a maximum rate of 25%, but gave Congress the power by a vote of three-fourths of all the members of each House to fix a rate in excess of 25%, but not in excess of 40%, by annual actions, a power which could be exercised absolutely in either peace-time or wartime. It also, as in the case of the state amendment, gave Congress the power by annual actions and by a three-fourths vote to suspend the limitation as to income taxes completely during any major war.

Mr. Reed's amendment also deprived Congress completely of the power to impose death and gift taxes at any time and left that means of taxation exclusively to the states.

The following month, on October 11, 1951, Senator Dirksen, of Illinois, introduced an identical resolution in the Senate.

It will be observed that this amendment, the Reed-Dirksen Amendment of 1951, is less rigid than the earlier amendment sought by the states by reason of the power given Congress even in peacetime to raise the rate to 40%. Despite this fact, objection was made to the amendment in certain quarters on the ground that it would impair the government's power to raise needed revenue and lead to deficit financing and an impairment of the government's credit, an objection that was without merit.

Second Reed-Dirksen Amendment

Nevertheless, Congressman Reed and Senator Dirksen decided to modify their original proposal so as to dispose of this objection, unsound though it was, and in January of this year introduced identical resolutions for this purpose in the House and Senate.

The new amendment contains the same 25% limitation as the basic maximum rate, with power, however, as in the case of their original proposal to exceed that rate on a three-fourths vote of each House of Congress taken annually. The new proposal, however, differs from the old in that it contains no top rate limitation where the necessary three-fourths vote of Congress is obtained to exceed the 25% rate. Instead the new proposal merely provides that where the 25% rate is exceeded the difference between the lowest rate and the highest rate shall not exceed 15 percentage points. For example, if the lowest rate were 15%, the highest rate could not exceed 30%. So long as this condition is observed, there is no limitation whatsoever on the rate of tax Congress may impose.

Where the top rate does not exceed 25%, there is no limit on the degree of progression. The beginning rate could, for example, be 1%, and the top rate 25%.

Consequently, there is no legal limitation whatsoever under this proposal on the amount of revenue that Congress may raise from the income tax. Hence, there is no longer any necessity under the revised proposal to have an escape clause in case of war. Neither in war nor in peace is there any legal limitation whatsoever on the maximum rate that Congress may impose.

It will thus be seen that the rigidity to which objection was made in the case of the first proposal arising from the employment of a fixed top rate completely disappears in the new proposal. The requirement that any amendment adopted shall not impair the power of Congress to raise revenue is, therefore, fully met by this proposal.

Second Reed-Dirksen Amendment Protects Individual Taxpayers

The remaining question is whether

STATEMENT BY EDWARD A. RUMELY, Executive Secretary, Committee for Constitutional Government

The Reed-Dirksen Amendment now has final endorsement of the American Bar Association, which will mobilize support through its 50,000 membership in all states and Congressional districts. Many other major, nationwide organizations have given endorsement to tax limitation—among them, the National Executive Committee of the American Legion, American Medical Association, Committee for Constitutional Government, Western Tax Council, National Association of Manufacturers, U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The job is immediately to supply the necessary information and to mobilize across the nation so as to bring the influence of the membership of all these groups, and of other leadership individuals, possibly up to one million, to urge action in Washington.

Leadership in this fight to protect private earnings from confiscation must come from a few hundred individuals and firms who have the insight and the means to provide the seed money. Then, many thousands more can be rallied to exert their influence and to give in average amounts of $25 each, thus providing a broad financial base for the movement.

THIS AMENDMENT WILL GREATLY REDUCE TAX RATES FOR SMALL TAXPAYERS AS WELL AS LARGE TAXPAYERS

The Committee's technique for nationwide education, mobilization of public opinion and expression to Washington is based upon 16 years' experience, beginning with the struggle against the court packing bill. We use direct mail to one million leadership individuals in all walks, on our lists, lawyers, clergymen, physicians, dentists, business leaders large and small, farm leaders, editors of daily, weekly, periodical publications, commentators, columnists. Each group will be approached by a leader or leaders respected within that group. We shall use press releases, radio, platform appearances by outstanding personalities whose opinions will be respected and widely reflected by the press.

But it takes time to organize such a movement. Despite the background of effective techniques and authoritative material, we have built up over many years. How can we make leaders realize quickly that financing the educational work to carry the Reed-Dirksen amendment to acceptance will be a most worthwhile investment, from the standpoint of public welfare; also that putting an end to the confiscation of the earnings of the efficient (on the Marxist pattern), thereby protecting job-making capital formation, will vastly increase the nation's production of wealth?

The objective is the preservation of the fundamentals of our free enterprise system.

The new proposal provides adequate protection against the imposition of confiscatory rates. The answer to this, in the case of the individual income tax, lies in the fact that under the new proposal it becomes of interest to every individual taxpayer to have the tax rates, not only of himself but of all other taxpayers, reduced to the lowest level consistent with the raising of needed revenue.

For example, the taxpayers in the lowest bracket, which at present carries a rate of 22.2%, will know that they cannot get their tax rate reduced unless the taxpayers in the top bracket have their rates reduced below 37.2%, which is 15 percentage points above the first-bracket rate of 22.2%. And those in the top bracket will be interested in getting the lowest bracket rate reduced in order that their own rate may be correspondingly reduced. Those in the intermediate brackets will likewise be pulling in the same direction. The middle-higher income groups will have a continuing interest in maintaining a first-bracket rate no higher than 10%, and the lower income groups will have a similar interest in not exceeding the top rate of 25%. The goal of all individual taxpayers will, therefore, be a beginning rate of not exceeding 10% as compared with the present rate of 22.2%, and a top rate of not exceeding 25% as compared with the present rate of 92%.

It is the united self-interest of the taxpayers, rather than a rigid top rate limitation, that is relied on in the new proposal to keep the rates within reasonable bounds.

The expectation that these rates may be established within a reasonable time is by no means unrealistic. Starting with the assumption that the national income continues at its present level, a federal budget of $46 billion with a sound and reasonable tax structure would permit a beginning rate of 10% and a top rate of 25%. As short a time ago as the fiscal year 1951 the expenditures of the federal government were $44½ billion, while in 1949 and 1950 they were $40 billion. That they will ultimately be much lower than this is certainly to be expected.

Accordingly, a beginning rate of much less than 10% should eventually be possible.

Refuting Claim Burden Shifts From Rich to Poor

Enemies of the proposed amendment are falsely asserting that it will shift the burden of taxation from the rich to the poor. This assertion ignores the basic facts.

According to a report made by former Secretary of the Treasury Snyder to the Ways and Means Committee on February 5, 1951, there were 66,000,000 individual income taxpayers, 57,000,000 of whom had taxable incomes, after all deductions and personal exemptions and credits for dependents, of not more than $2000, and, therefore, were in the first bracket only.

From this same report it appears that the bulk of the revenue from the individual income tax comes not from the taxpayers with the higher incomes, but from the taxpayers in the lower brackets, for that is where the income is. 70% of the taxable income of individuals is in the first bracket, which includes incomes of $2000 and under, and 85% of the revenue from the individual income tax is produced by the first bracket rate of 22.2%, when applied to the entire amount of taxable income in all brackets.

Furthermore, the revenue now produced by the rates in excess of 37.2%, which is 15 percentage points above the present beginning rate of 22.2%, is less than $1¼ billion. To indicate how minor this amount is in a revenue budget of $68 billion, a tax of 4% on the income of corporations would produce more than this amount. At the present rate of spending, this would pay the expenses of the federal government for about nine days.

Moreover, there can be no doubt that the lower rate would in due course produce greater revenue than the higher rate because of the increased incentive to the taxpayers receiving the income, and the larger amount of income left in their hands that would be available for investment in productive enterprise. This would result in an increase in total income, which is the base on which the rate is imposed.

In short then, the notion that the federal government can finance its operations by "soaking the rich" is utterly false. If the government is to spend money at anything like the present rate, it must get the bulk of its individual income tax revenue from the taxpayers in the lower brackets, for that is where the income is.

The only possible way to give them relief is by cutting expenditures.

Second Reed-Dirksen Amendment Protects Corporations

While the protection is less than in the case of individuals, substantial protection against confiscatory rates is afforded corporations by the new proposal. There can be little doubt, however, that budget requirements will make it necessary to keep corporation rates at comparatively high levels for some time to come.

Second Reed-Dirksen Amendment Strikes at Heart of Marx System

What the new proposal does is to strike at the heart of the taxation system of Karl Marx, which requires the imposition of a heavy progressive or graduated income tax. The graduation is reduced, at least nominally, to a maximum of 15 percentage points. However, the real degree of graduation is much greater, owing to the personal exemptions and credits for dependents which have become a well established feature of our tax laws. For example, under the present law a person with $2400 of such credits and a net income of $4000 before deducting the credits would have his tax cut by the credits from $936 to $355.20, thus making the actual effective rate of tax on his $4000 income about 9% instead of 23.4%. As incomes increase, the effect of these credits on the rates diminishes, thus increasing markedly the real degree of graduation in rates between the smaller and larger incomes. It can readily be seen that credits of $2400 would have but little effect on the rate of tax on a $100,000 income.

As I see it, the second Reed-Dirksen Amendment answers all the critics of the original amendment, unsound though their objections are, except those who insist upon a heavy progression in rates for the primary purpose of penalizing the recipients of the middle and higher incomes, despite the relatively inconsequential amount of revenue involved and the exceedingly harmful economic effects of such taxation. It is difficult to explain any opposition to the revised amendment except on the ground that it is actuated by an adherence to the taxation philosophy of Karl Marx.

Death and Gift Taxes

Both the first and the second Reed-Dirksen amendments deprive Congress of the power to impose death and gift taxes at any time, and leave this means of raising revenue exclusively to the states, thus ending an undesirable duplication of taxes. These taxes constitute but a trivial part of the federal budget—about 1% at the present time—which is only enough to pay the expenses of the government for about three days.

Redistribution of Wealth Fallacy

It is frequently asserted that 90% of the wealth in this country is owned by a small group of rich people. This assertion is utterly false. The supposed truth of it, however, is used as an argument for effecting a redistribution of wealth through taxation.

According to a study by Dr. Willford I. King, on July 1, 1936, there were about 9,000 families in the United States having wealth of $1 million or over, and their wealth in the aggregate amounted to approximately $22 billion. This was slightly less than 7% of the total value of private property in the country at that time, which Dr. King estimated at about $321 billion.

Moreover, the results of the redistribution of existing wealth would, I think, be most disappointing and disillusioning to many of those who advocate it.

Using the figures in Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's report to the House Ways and Means Committee on February 5, 1951, if the total taxable income before taxes in the income tax brackets over $10,000, which was received by 758,800 individuals, were divided equally among the 155 million people in the country, each person would receive about $50.

If the total taxable income before taxes in the brackets over $6000 were so distributed, each person would get $80.

If the total taxable income before taxes in the brackets over $20,000 were so distributed, each person would get $25.

The lesson to be learned from this is that what is needed is not a redistribution of existing wealth, but the production of more wealth. This can be accomplished only by providing a proper incentive for people to work, save and invest in productive enterprise. It is the incentive furnished by the right to acquire and own property and to dispose of it during life and at death, and the right to make and keep a reasonable profit for one's labor and the use of his property that makes possible the increased production of wealth and the resulting improvement in the general scale of living. It is this incentive which is the mainspring of the capitalistic or private enterprise system, without which it will not work. The removal, or partial removal, of this incentive by excessive income and death taxes leads to the production of less wealth and defeats the objective of improving the lot of the average citizen.

Press Article Deals Only With State Movement

As I have previously pointed out, the newspaper article above referred to deals only with the movement in the state legislatures to compel Congress to call a convention to propose a tax limitation amendment. If 32 states, two-thirds of the total, seasonably request such action, Congress is required by the Constitution to call a convention. It is a very different amendment from either the first or the second Reed-Dirksen Amendment, and is by all odds the least flexible of the three.

The statement in the newspaper article that only 12 of the states are for the plan as against 25 opposed, is at complete variance with the facts. Those most active in this movement claim that 28 states have adopted the resolution requesting Congress to call a convention. Barring a possible technical flaw in the proceedings of one of these states, there is good reason to believe that this number of states have taken favorable action.

The point made in the newspaper article that in two of the states their approval "was cancelled by gubernatorial vetoes," is wholly without merit, since the Executive Branch of a state government has no authority whatsoever to act in the matter of an amendment to the federal constitution. Likewise, there is grave doubt as to whether a state which has once given its approval can later rescind such action.

Furthermore, President Eisenhower's statement during the campaign, referred to in the article, dealt with the amendment advocated by the states, and had no application whatsoever to the amendment being advocated by Representative Reed and Senator Dirksen.

Chance of Success Real

It is unfortunate that such a misleading picture should be painted about the tax limitation movement. The fact is that there has never been a time since the movement started when the chances of success seemed as favorable as they do today. During the past year a number of additional organizations have gone on record in favor of a tax limitation amendment, and some of them, including the American Bar Association, have expressly endorsed the present Reed-Dirksen amendment.

And of great importance, the amendment now proposed in Congress is sponsored by two of its leading members—Representative Chauncey W. Reed of Illinois, the chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, to which the amendment has been referred, and Senator Everett Dirksen of Illinois.

So, regardless of the outcome of the movement in the states, there is good reason to expect that Congress itself will pass a tax limitation amendment and submit it to the states for ratification in the usual way.

It should be observed that most of our state legislatures meet biennially in the odd years, so that it is most unlikely that ratification of the proposed amendment by the states could occur before 1955, in which event the amendment would become effective December 31, 1955.

Summary

By way of summary, therefore, the movement for tax limitation has gone through several stages, in each of which the limitation on income tax rates has become less rigid and more flexible. The first proposal (which is the State proposal) permitted the 25% rate to be exceeded only in time of a major war; the next proposal (the first Reed-Dirksen Amendment) added to this the right in peacetime to go to 40%; and the third and last proposal (the second Reed-Dirksen Amendment) places no limitation either in time of peace or war on the rate that may be imposed. It merely limits the degree of progression, without, however, requiring any progression whatsoever should Congress so elect.

TO COMMITTEE FOR CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT:

I realize that not only my family and business associates but the entire nation will lose heavily if we continue confiscatory, capital-destroying taxes. I am, therefore, ready to help distribute information on this issue to leadership individuals, lawyers, physicians, educators, farm leaders, business men large and small, so that they may understand the far-reaching damage of present confiscatory taxation that the Reed-Dirksen Amendment will prevent, opening the way for an adjustment of the tax load so as to preserve a dynamic, expanding economy, providing more jobs for on-coming youth and greater wealth production.

I have written my Senators and Congressmen, as suggested above, sending along copy of the above statement. Yes..... No..... Please send me 1 free copy of the Dresser SPOTLIGHT No. C202-203. Up to 5 additional copies 10c each; 15 for $1.

Wants Okinawa

TAIPEH, Formosa (P) - Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists apparently hope that Okinawa and the rest of the Ryukyus, strategic Pacific Islands between Formosa and Japan, one day will come back to Chinese rule.

Evidence of this was provided by a letter sent to Foreign Minister George Yeh by the control Yuan, Free China's highest watchdog body. The letter, inspired by press reports that Japan intended to discuss with the United States the "problem of the Ryukyus," asked Yeh to pay close attention to the situation.

The Nationalists all along have claimed the Ryukyus were part of the Chinese empire before they were taken by Japan.

BOSTON (P) - Radio-television star Arthur Godfrey will undergo surgery "within a few days" to correct hip injuries suffered in an automobile accident 22 years ago, it was announced Wednesday night.

The 49-year-old Godfrey suffered 27 fractures when his car collided with a truck in Washington, D. C., in 1931 and he has been in almost constant pain since then.

Two major operations to rebuild his hips will be performed. Godfrey will be hospitalized about eight weeks.

The Morning After ...

By "FRIDAY"

Yesterday we announced Marge Hyland as president of the Wednesday Afternoon league and when we attended the banquet last night discovered we were wrong again, as the president for last year was Betty Nelson. We told Betty we were sorry about the mix-up and she smiled. "Oh, that's all right," as she jabbed a fork into our hand as we reached for another piece of chicken. Marge said last year's secretary, and was re-elected for another year. Other officers were president, Jarish Tarnowski and vice president, Beverly Anderson. We had the pleasure of presenting the championship plaque and individual pins for the team, to Gerie Campbell of the Studebaker Sales five. The league had a good turnout for the fried chicken dinner served at Plum Hollow by Oscar and Rose Witzel, and from where we sat it appeared everyone was having a fine time.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—When Paul Benson was serving with the U.S. army in Germany he frequently went to air force dances at Frankfurt. One of his favorite partners

Benson came home in 1946 and resumed work with the Naturalization and Immigration service in Pittsburgh. His job included interviewing applicants for citizenship.

Recently he was examining a list of applications and noticed one from Grosskrotzenberg. Benson arranged to handle the interview and asked about Erna.

PEORIA, Ill. (P) — Four dental experts said here that there is no proof that fluoridation of drinking water is harmful but that there is considerable evidence of its benefit.

They told the 69th annual meeting of the Illinois State Dental Society that fluoridation of water supplies is an effective method of reducing tooth decay.

Dr. Otto W. Brandhorst, St. Louis, president of the American Dental Association, said nearly 14 million persons in 730 communities in this country now are drinking fluoridated water.

Dr. James E. Mahoney, Wood River, Ill., president of the state society, said opposition to fluoridation "is similar to that which marked enactment of the Pure Food and Drug Act.

Other speakers who advocated fluoridation were Dr. J. Roy Doty, Chicago, secretary of the American Dental Association's Council of Dental Therapeutics, and Dr. Robert J. Kesel, Chicago, head of the University of Illinois' College of Dentistry.
